L. Frank Baum's
New Wonder Book

John Dough and the Cherub

BY THE AUTHOR OF

The Wizard of Oz - The Land of Oz - Father Goose

A whimsical tale along entirely unique lines. In humor, interest and originality, however, the new book exceeds anything this popular author has as yet written.

The story is a faithful portrayal of the exciting adventures of the Gingerbread Man and his comrade Chick the Cherub in the "Palace of Romance," "The Land of the Mifkets," "Hiland and Loland," etc. The book abounds in entirely new and unique Baum characters, delightfully pictured by John R. Neill, illustrator of The Land of Oz.

THE MOST LAVISHLY ILLUSTRATED BAUM BOOK PUBLISHED

Forty full-page colored pictures; twenty colored pictorial chapter headings; one hundred black and white text pictures; special end sheets; title page, copyright page and table of contents in colors.

8vo, extra cloth binding, side and back stamping in three colors. Price $1.25. (Postage 18 cents).

ANNABEL

A NOVEL FOR YOUNG FOLKS

BY

SUZANNE METCALF

Little men and women of to-day are reading novels with the consent of parents. Annabel occupies the unique distinction of being the First Children's Novel published as such. It breathes the purest thoughts and impulses of a girl blossoming into womanhood and her gentle influence on the life of a struggling boy. The love thread has "no beginning and no ending" but its subtle existence between the lines appeals to the noblest instincts of boy or girl. Parents can safely recommend this book.

12mo, dainty cloth, with inlaid design and six splendid duotone illustrations by H. Putnam Hall. Price $1.25.

AUNT JANE'S NIECES

A FASCINATING STORY FOR GIRLS

BY EDITH VAN DYNE

A story of three girls who were invited by a hitherto neglectful, but wealthy maiden aunt to visit her home. The object was no secret—the aunt desired to choose one of her nieces' to succeed to her large estate. The appearance of Uncle John, first thought to be poor and afterwards found to be tremendously rich, the finding of a will which defeated the bequests of Aunt Jane, and the final rescue of the nieces by Uncle John, make fine reading and point a moral without moralizing. The author has an extraordinary chance in her more than clever story to portray character and does it most ingeniously.

12mo. Bound in imported vellum, artistically stamped in colors and gold. Handsomely illustrated with six clever half tone pictures by E. A. Nelson. Price $1.00. (Postage 12 cents).

THE TWINKLE TALES

Six Charming New Stories for Children

BY LAURA BANCROFT

Miss Bancroft has a delightful vein of humor of the quaint, sparkling variety which readily appeals to children of all ages. Several critics who have read the advance sheets of THE TWINKLE TALES have favorably compared Miss Bancroft's stories to Mr. Baum's works.

For this series, the clever artist, Maginel Wright Enright has made over one hundred special drawings admirably illustrating the text. The pictures, all full page, are in many colors.

Each book contains fifteen full pages in colors and multi-colored title page. In covers, make-up and style of manufacture THE TWINKLE TALES have the appearance of THE LAND OF OZ in miniature.

Square 16 mo. Imported vellum binding with cover side stamping in many colors. Price, 50 cents. (Postage, 5 cents).

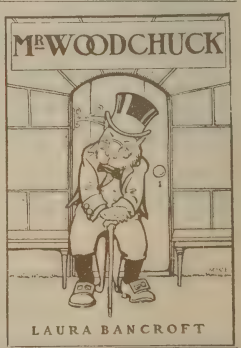
PRAIRIE-DOG TOWN

Twinkle and her chum, Chubbins, go to a picnic, but escape from the crowd and find a prairie-dog town.

Meeting the Mayor, they are made small through the efforts of a magician and visit the town. After numerous adventures, they leave their hosts, and regaining their natural size, resolve never to tell of their experience.

MR. WOODCHUCK

Twinkle watches a woodchuck's hole in front of which a trap has been set and is suddenly made a prisoner by the animal. He takes her to his home where she meets his family, and later to a judge who condemns her to step in a big trap. She escapes and that night induces her father to remove the trap by the hole.



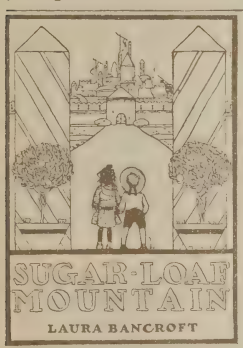
THE TWINKLE TALES

BANDIT JIM CROW

Twinkle's father captures a crow which the little girl keeps for a pet. The bird escapes after a time and makes his home in a forest where he is unwelcome. Jim Crow starts to rob the nests of the other birds and a blue-jay punishes him. Jim then uses a little strategy but is discovered and badly treated.

Twinkle's Enchantment

One day Twinkle unknowingly becomes enchanted. She meets a rolling-stone and later a dancing bear by whom she is entertained. Later, on her way home she goes with Prince Grasshopper to his town to see a dance. Soon she discovers it is quite dark, and hurries home to supper.



SUGAR-LOAF MOUNTAIN

Twinkle and Chubbins find an old entrance to the interior of the mountain. They enter and are taken to the King's Palace. Here they are royally entertained. On returning in a carriage from luncheon an accident occurs, but they are not hurt. Being thirsty they decided to return home, as the people do not use water in this city.

PRINCE MUD-TURTLE

Twinkle captures a turtle and later finds that it can speak. She discovers it to be an enchanted Fairy Prince and after many adventures in Fairyland, where she encounters a corrugated giant, she helps break the Prince's enchantment and set him free.

PUTMAN HALL, printed in duotone, and it is embellished with many decorations.

Edition de Luxe, full morocco leather, decorated. Price $4.00 (Postage 18 cents.)

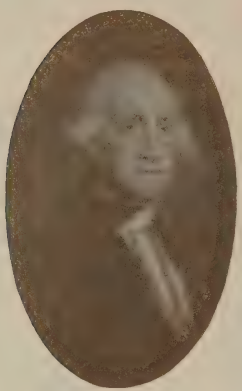
TENTH EDITION

SINCE ITS PUBLICATION IN OCTOBER 1904

Every woman is more or less interested in cookery, and most women who "keep house"—and many who do not—have a number of recipes given them by friends, culled from the newspapers or inherited from relatives, written on scraps of paper which can rarely be found when wanted and which are ultimately lost. This book provides an ideal place for these recipes.

The paper, "cafe au lait" stationery, is of fine quality with a good writing surface, and a color which will not soil easily. The decorations are printed in two colors; the binding is of crash buckram, matching the paper; each book has a fancy ribbon bookmark and is attractively boxed.

Large 12mo. Price $1.00. (Postage 11 cents.) Full flexible leather, gold edges. Price $2.00. (Postage 11 cents.)



INAUGURAL ADDRESSES

A Two Volume Edition from the private plates of The Lakeside Press, containing the Inaugural Messages of the Presidents of the United States from

WASHINGTON
TO ROOSEVELT

EDITED BY JOHN VANCE CHENEY.

Inaugural Addresses is the first publication to contain exclusively the messages of the Presidents of the United States as delivered upon taking the oath of office. These messages are now only to be found in large reference works. When brought out for private distribution, The Lakeside Press stated that the volume in workmanship was a "protest against the faddishness of a certain class of edition de luxe." Plain clear type, printed in good ink, upon good white paper and bound in simple green vellum with gold stamping, constituted the protest. Needless to say the volumes were well received and so much talked about that a demand was created in the trade for a regular edition, manufactured identically the same as the private edition.

Inaugural addresses (and the Autobiography of Benj. Franklin, listed below,) mark the beginning of a series of Patriotic Classics to be added to each season by The Reilly & Britton Co.

Two volumes in carton, bound in dark green vellum with back and side stamping in gold. Small 12mo. with photogravure frontispieces of Washington and Roosevelt.

Price per set $3.00 net. (Postage 15 cents.)

REGULAR EDITION

Size 11 x 9½ x 4 inches.

Weight 9 pounds.

While Webster's INTERNATIONAL Dictionary is generally known as the leading authority in the English language, the publishers of the Webster series have recognized the necessity of popularizing the well-known UNABRIDGED. This has been modernized and enriched by a NEW SUPPLEMENT which brings the work well up to date and adapts it to the wants of those who require a dictionary at once of high quality and low price.

This edition contains 1764 pages and over 118,000 words and meanings. It is illustrated throughout the text with more than 3000 pictures and besides has 68 full pages of illustrations; 4 color pages, displaying the arms and seals of the states and territories, arms of various nations, naval flags and pennants, the international code, and flags of the various nations; frontispiece of Noah Webster. SPECIAL

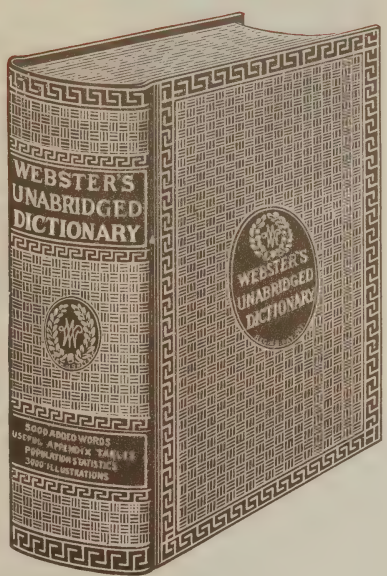
EDITION



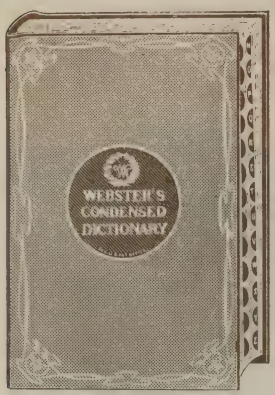
Bound in full tan sheep with double thumb index; marbled edges; title printed on back-bone in gold; blind stamping on side showing design and trade-mark of the publishers; 1764 pages.

Size 11 x 8½ x 3 inches.

Weight 6½ pounds.

The Regular edition of the Unabridged Dictionary, as described on opposite page, has largely eliminated the use of the spurious, photographic "reprints," trading on the name of "Webster," yet there is an extensive sale for them, owing to the cheap manner in which they are manufactured, which enables their publishers to offer them to the public at a low price. They are advertised as up-to-date and genuine, although they are, word for word, the same as the 1847 edition.

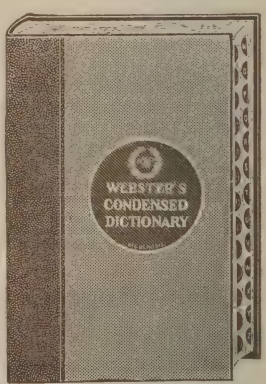
This Special edition is aimed to prevent the further sale of these obsolete books. While printed on cheaper paper than the regular edition, and somewhat reduced in size, the Special edition is, page for page, identical with the Regular edition. The difference between the two books is that of manufacture. The Regular edition is better made than the Special, but the latter is in every way superior to the obsolete reprints. Price, $4.00



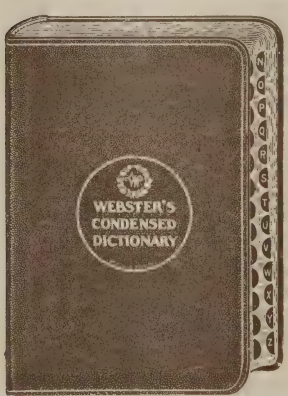
Webster's
Condensed Dictionary

Authorized and Copyrighted by
G. & C. MERRIAM CO., 1906 EDITION.

A dictionary of the English language, with copious etymologes, accurate definitions, pronunciations, spelling, and appendixes of general reference, derived from the Unabridged Dictionary of Noah Webster, D. D., LL. D., edited under the supervision of Noah Porter, D., D., LL. D., President of Yale College. Webster's Condensed Dictionary contains 46,297 defined words, (25 to 40% more than any other dictionary of similiar scope outside of the genuine Webster series,) 1500 text illustrations, with color maps and charts as follows: A general Map of the United States; a general Map of the World; Flags of All Nations; Flags and Pennants of the International Code; the Signal Service Code; an Astronomical Chart of the Planetary System.



Webster's Condensed Dictionary has been the model upon which many so-called "Webster" and other dictionaries of high-sounding titles have been built. These have been sold to the public in cheap bindings and printed poorly on cheaper paper in order to appeal by price instead of merit. Webster's Condensed Dictionary is designed to meet all conditions squarely in the face by reason of its authoritative contents, greater scope, original and better illustrations, standard of manufacture, paper, press work and bindings. The Condensed is well up to date, containing latest words, meanings and derivations. Not only is it protected by copyright, but also by Registered Trademark. Additional to its department of definitions is an appendix containing a pronouncing vocabulary, abbreviations in writing and printing, arbitrary signs, etc., Examples of new words: Radium, Tonneau, Limousine, Chauffeur, Lingerie, Coherer, Acetylene, Graft, Etc.



Printed on high quality of paper.

Size 7¾x5¾x1¾ inches.

Bound in three durable styles, viz:

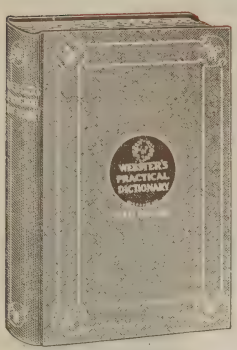
Extra silk finish cloth, with side and back stamping in gold, marbled edges, double thumb index cut on edge. Price $1.25.

Half morocco, side and back stamping in gold, marbled edges, double thumb index cut on edge. Price $1.50.

Library Edition, bound in genuine flexible morocco, gold side and back stamping, rounded corners, extra marbled edges, with double thumb index. Price $2.00.

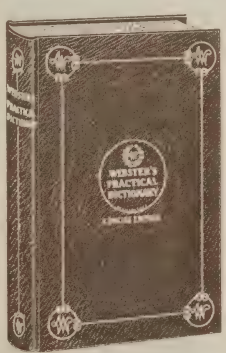
Weight packed for shipment (each book) 36 ounces.

Webster's Practical Dictionary



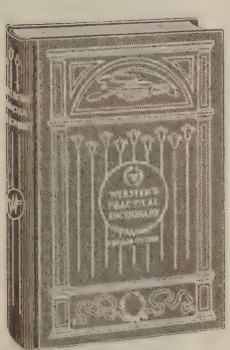
1906 EDITION
Authorized and Copyrighted by
G. & C. MERRIAM CO.

The Practical is all that its name implies—a practical dictionary of the English language, embodying the 31,465 words in practical use. While this dictionary is an abridgment of the well known Webster's Condensed Dictionary, it carries more words than any other handy sized dictionary, excepting the genuine Webster series, not to speak of its better illustrations and its definitions of later words, such as antitoxin, lyddite, chauffeur, automboile, radium, mercerized, limousine, etc. The authorship is the same as that of the Unabridged and Condensed dictionaries. Like the larger Websters, its authority is genuine and endorsed as such by educators. The Practical is published in three styles, designed to meet the needs of the public at most reasonable prices.



The Ideal edition contains 634 pages, including the dictionary proper with its 1200 illustrations and an appendix of 106 pages. The appendix consists of a pronouncing vocabulary, alphabetical list of abbreviations, arbitrary signs, the metric system, etc. Printed on extra book paper from new type set plates and substantially bound in durable extra cloth.

Size 7¼x5¼x1¼ inches. Weight ready for shipment, 26 ounces. Price, 80 cents.



The Concise edition contains 528 pages, but corresponds exactly to the Ideal except that the 106 pages of appendix are omitted. It is printed and bound in the same style and on the same high grade of paper.

Size, 7¼x5¼ 1 inch. Weight, packed for shipment, 20 ounces. Price, 65c.

The Popular edition is identical in contents with the Concise edition, containing 528 pages. It is well printed on a good grade of paper and bound in durable cloth.

Size, 7¼x5¼x1 inch. Weight, packed for shipment, 16 ounces. Price, 40 cents.

ALLEN, Philip Loring.

¶America's Awakening. 12mo, cloth.....1.00

Our daily press, weeklies, and magazines have been filled with the records of the misdeeds, alleged or actual, of our public men. The Muck-rake man has succeeded in creating a mist, at least, by his stirring up, but his disciples in literary circles are for the most part still with their eyes on the ground. Philip Loring Allen of the New York Evening Post has had the rich pleasure of looking up and has found much of unrecorded good in us as a people and as individuals, and gives us hope that his silver lining to the cloud is more than simply a reflection—it is a realit and in reality the nation's bulwark.

ALLEN, ROBERT, of Tippecanoe, Ind.

Letters of an Old Methodist to His Son in the Ministry. 12mo, cloth..... ... . 1.25

"Letters in which any young clergyman of whatever faith will not fail to find advice, instruction and inspiration. It is not such advice as the 'goody-goody' papa would give to a 'willy-boy,' but is such hard-headed sense as one would expect to emanate from a mature man of the world, well seasoned by experience, and savored by grace."—Boston Transcript.

"This doughty defense of the traditional theories of the Scriptures is written with the earnestness of deep conviction, in a straight-forward, dogmatic, eloquent style. The author, it is to be inferred from his titles, is an English lawyer and has been a judge. He corrals the whole multitude of higher critics, arraigns them, summons the witnesses, reports their testimony, declares the culprits guilty, describes their guilt, lectures them and pronounces sentence."—Congregationalist.

Its two divisions go into manifold details, historical, apologetic, hermeneutic, and others. With some concessions to modern criticism, the general view maintained is strongly conservative."—The Outlook.

Latin America. The Pagans, the Patriots, the Protestants, and the Present Problem. 12mo, cloth, illustrated..... 1.20

"Supplies a positive want, inasmuch as nothing has yet appeared covering the field with such intimate knowledge. He views Latin America from four points. First, as a pagan region; second, becoming a great Roman Catholic region; third, and more interestingly, Mr. Brown describes the South American patriots—such men as Bolivar and Juarez, for instance—their fight for independence, and especially their struggle for religious liberty; lastly he describes Latin America as viewed by a Protestant, contrasting papal and Protestant conditions, and indicating the prospect for Protestant work. The author's words have considerable weight, as they are the result of his sixteen years of service as a missionary in Mexico."—The Outlook.

¶ The Adventures of Billy Topsail. 12mo, illustrated, ... †1.50

It's a boy's book, but it's "a book to be chummy with"—that includes everybody.

A ripping story of adventure by sea is regarded by every true-hearted boy as the very best story of all. The yarn—that's the thing! If the sea is a northern sea, full of ice and swept by big gales, if the adventures are real, if the hero is not a prig, if the tale concerns itself with heroic deeds and moves like a full-rigged ship with all sail spread to a rousing breeze, the boy will say "Bully!" and read the the story again. Such is "The Adventures of Billy Topsail." A book to be chummy with.

A clever, wide-awake missionary wife can write an interesting story almost any time, especially if she has lived among such a-much-talked-of people as the African Pigmies, of whom really little is known. Mrs. Fisher writes most entertainingly, and is free from cant and commonplace. She is a good observer, and one could wish for many more such informing books as this about missionary lands.

He shows how names that are household words in American history—Revere, Faneuil, Bowdoin and Dana in New England; Jay, Desbrosses, Hamilton and a host of others in New York; Girard and Bayard in Pennsylvania—came from among the French refugees. The book abounds in interesting facts that have for the most part es caped attention.

¶Quiet Talks on Service. 16mo, cloth ..... .75

As a concluding volume in a series of "Quiet Talks" upon the elements of the Christian Life, this volume will find a ready welcome from the hundreds of thousands who have read andre-read "Quiet Talks on Power" and "Quiet Talks on Prayer," the earlier works by Mr. Gordon. The sequence of "power," "prayer" and "service" suggests the possibilities of this trilogy of spiritual forces. Mr. Gordon in his treatment has been at once individual and unified, so completely do the books stand alone and complement one another.

GRAY, W. C.

¶Musings by Campfire. Pocket and Travellers' Edition. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00

Doctor Gray was first of all an out-of-doors man. His house was the world of nature and the roof of his house the dome of the heavens. In the larger edition of this work were originally incorporated some indoor reflections which were and are good and excellent, but the clamor has been made for a pocket edition of this modern "Izaak Walton" for campers and summer idlers. It is an ideal book for reading before the fire at evening, its style is perfect and Dr. Gray had a positive intuition as to what is of general interest in nature.

From its founding by Jerry McAuley, through his leadership, and subsequently under the direction of Samuel H. Hadley, it has been permitted a wonderful record of saving grace. From every side comes request for the story of the life of Hadley. None knew this man and his work, his struggles and his victories, better than Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, who has given his time and peculiarly fitting talent to the preparation of this life.

¶The Spirit World. 12mo, cloth,..... 1.50
Here is a daring piece of work well done. It is an attempt to answer the question "What may we consistently hold in regard to the spiritual phenomena recorded in theScriptures?" The author is loyal to scripture teaching yet he balks not at such questions as "Is communication with spirits possible ?" "Are there fallen angels ?" With utter frankness and saneness the author admits the difficulties and mystery of the problem and in the aggregate presents a strong brief for Christian teaching, conceding however that there must still be further revelation along the line of spiritualism to admit of conclusive interpretation.

The Pen of Brahma. Peeps into Hindu Hearts and Homes. 12 full-page illustrations. Cloth, 12mo..... 1.25
Miss Harband has a gift for making the life of far-away people seem intensely real. "The Pen of Brahma" is the natural irregular fissures in the skull, which to the Hindu mind is the unalterable fate written at birth on each mortal by the hand of the God. A novel is not more fascinating than this picture of life told with spirited touch and sympathetic insight.

Daughters of Darkness in Sunny India. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00
Miss Harband gives us a charming variation among stories from the mission fields. She shows us the Missionary and the Gospel as they are seen through the eyes of a little Hindu maiden. The story has marked literary merit, and the writer has shown great skill in weaving the facts of her observation into a harmonious narrative.

The wonderful development of Canada has attracted the attention of the world. To-day she is being crowded by progress to the fore-front as a Nation. In her foundation days there lay wonderful stories of sturdy people. Especially in the older portion of Ontario is there rich material for the novelist, for the truth could be but a revelation of romance of purity and probity. Miss Keith draws her material from the counties of Ontario which have given Canada her greatest men. Her's is a forceful interesting style that binds the reader from first to last.

"Readers of this Memoir, will understand readily why his fellow countrymen deemed him worthy of a monument on those heights which crown the Federal City of Canada. The statute of Sir Galahad unveiled by the Governor-General in the presence of the highest officials of the land, will speak to future generations of the idealism, the fearlessness, the self-sacrifice of one who on Heine's line was indeed a "Ritter von dem heil'gen Geist"—the true spiritual chivalry of mankind. So long as Canada can number such knights among Her sons, the devastating dragons of "boodle" and "graft" will hardly lay waste her lands unchecked and uncombated."—The Outlook.

KNOWLES, Robert E.

¶The Undertow: A Novel. 12mo, cloth †1.50

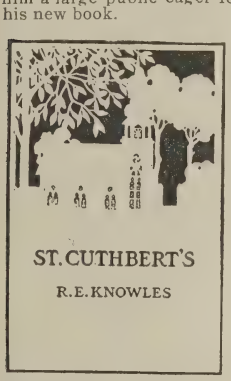
Under this singularly striking and elucidating title, Mr. Knowles has written an exceedingly interesting novel of life. The undertow, every bather knows, is a most insidious force—subtle, treacherous and death-giving. The breakers welcome with smile of spray as they ripple and dance at the edge, but beware the undertow. Without preaching Mr. Knowles draws the analogy in life in a startling book for which we predict a warm welcome. Mr. Knowles' ST. CUTHBERT'S has prepared for him a large public eager for his new book.



St. Cuthbert's. 12mo, cloth ..... †1.50

"What Ian Maclaren has done for his Scotch parish and what Barrie has done for Thrums, that Robert E. Knowles has done for his Canadian church folks. Mr. Knowles has written with a rare sense of humor which is not to be overlooked. Beyond the kindly humor of the sketches, they are in part as instinct with sentiment and pathos as the most lacrymose page of the 'Bonnie Brier Bush' or 'A Widow in Thrums.' It is a new field of romantic interest Mr. Knowles opens up in St. Cuthbert's'."—Albany Argus.

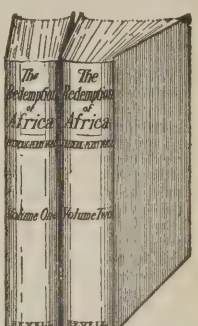
The Redemption of Africa. A Story of Civilization. With Bibliography, Illustrations, Maps, and Statistical Tables, 2 vols., 8vo, cloth..... 4.00



"In thoroughness of preparation, wealth of citation, impartiality of judgment, and predominant desire to tell nothing but the truth and to be free 'from all suspicion of favor or malice,' his work is modeled on the highest plane of historical composition. We think he has produced a historical work of most unusual merit. It will be valued very highly. While the theme is missions, so much of the best information about Africa, in all its phases, has very seldom been included within a single book. The work put into it makes the book worth having not for its charmingly told story only, but for its remarkable array of facts—the greatest collection, we think, we have ever seen, on all sides of Africa, in one book."—The New York Sun.

All of which is eminently true of the refined volume now in the reviewer's hands, with its thirty-two chapter-essays on girlhood and womanhood, its portrait-studies from life ot many attractive women, and its ingenious and delicate lace-like decorations in gray Quaker like tint, page by page; from beginning to end....The binding is that of a lady in her evening dress, and the soul of the book as well as its beauty make it a choice and engaging object."—Literary World.

Every Christian should be able to give a reason for the faith that he holds; to know why he believes and upon what grounds. The design of these lessons is to meet that need and to give a summary of the leading Bible doctrines. No attempt has been made to seek after new or novel constructions of the subjects treated, or to emphasize points of difference, but rather to show upon how many fundamental things all Christians are united. The standard of authority is the Bible, and the final appeal is always to its pages.

"It is safe to hazard the opinion that 'The Samaritans' will receive a wide reading. It is not only a work of genius; it is a message to the times, although concerned with such a malodorous subject as a London slum. Yet because of its piquancy of style, its philosophic insight, its feeling for humanity, its saving grace of humor, and, above all, its living example of a wholesome, helpful Christianity, it keeps the interest of the reader unabated in the old-time struggle between good and evil. The leading characters of the book are drawn with remarkable skill."—Christendom.

TESKEY, Adeline M.

¶A Little Lower than the Angels. By the author of "The Village Artist." 12mo, cloth..... †1.25

This story of the decline, fall, and retribution of the village M. A. is strikingly interesting. It tells of the temptations of genius and the dangers of the rapid acquisition of mental power unrestrained by the better influence of a godly life. It is a positive picture of the wrecking of a career—of the destruction of love and ambition and of an all too long delayed realization of weakness and consequent retribution. It is a temperance story—not maudlin and weak—in which the author has dared to picture the actual, and not at all unusual, steps in the downfall of a cultured young man with an inherited tendency toward inebriety. Miss Teskey is a brilliant and sympathetic writer and has given her powers full play in this story.

"'The Village Artist' is a new force in character-making and in story-telling. She is a quaint, unselfish New England character something after Mrs. Sloson's famous types. In the ordinary, uninteresting folks around her, she sees 'possibilities' and she paints what she sees. It is a fair prophecy that after her pictures have been 'hung' in the art gallery, more than one reader will try a hand at such painting, and the world will be a better place because of it."—Sunday-School Times.

VON ZEDTWITZ, Baroness.

¶The Double Doctrine of the Church of Rome. Decorated boards..... .35

Baroness von Zedtwitz has created a wonderful interest throughout the country by the publication of this little book. Protestants and Roman Catholics alike are evincing unusual interest, not only because of the social position of the author, but because of the entirely new phase of thought provoked by her treatment of her subject. As one of the Misses Caldwell of Washington, D. C., and Louisville, Ky., who gave largely to the Catholic University at Washington as recently as 1887, Baroness von Zedtwitz attained much prominence.

He has a happy art of selecting texts and titles, the essays are refreshingly brief and full of the substance of thought drawn from wide reading and observation of men and things. Ministers will find a suggestive quality in the thought for their own preaching; and for general religious reading, or reading aloud in brief services in the absence of a preacher, the chapters are admirable."Congregationalist.

The Journal heretofore filled four volumes, a prohibitive bulk that Mr. Parker has condensed to this single cover.

This strange country is Arabia, where judged by our way of looking at things, manners, customs and every thing else looks topsy-turvy. Written in a vivacious and simple way, full of fun-in-earnest. Alive with information on the oddities of desert, crops, children, money, amusements, social and religious customs, language, and even the Arab puzzle. It shows what missions have done and what more they ought to do to set topsy-turvy life right-side up. The many illustrations are from drawings and photographs selected by the authors.

THE SAALFIELD MUSLIN BOOKS

All my other books are worn
And the leaves are badly torn,
But the muslin books I found
Were as good as newly bound.

THE SAALFIELD MUSLIN BOOKS are printed on soft linen in exceedingly bright colors. They may be bent, folded and rolled and yet not be broken or torn. They may be washed and the colors will not run, or the baby may, with perfect safety, put the leaves into his mouth and the print will not come off, or the book be soiled the least bit. There are bright pictures on every page. The print is clear and easily read. They are books in which every child will take unbounded delight, for the simple reason that they do not need to be careful for fear of spoiling or tearing them. Published in four sizes as follows:

INTERNATIONAL CRITICAL COMMENTARY on the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments. Issued under the editorship of Prof. C. A. BRIGGS, D.D., in America, and Prof. S. R. DRIVER, D.D., and Rev. ALFRED PLUMMER, D.D., in Great Britain.

This Commentary is international and inter-confessional, and is free from polemical and ecclesiastical bias. It is based upon a thorough critical study of the original texts of the Bible, and upon critical methods of interpretation. It is designed chiefly for students and clergymen, and will be written in a compact style. Historical and Archaeological questions, as well as questions of Biblical Theology, are included in the plan of the Commentary, but not Practical or Homiletical Exegesis. The volumes constitute a uniform series.

THE SCUDDER BROS. CO.

MEDICAL PUBLISHERS,

1009 Plum Street, CINCINNATI, O.

AS a school of medicine we profess to have a distinctive practice unlike either our old school or homœopathic neighbors. We claim to use different remedies, or in different form and dose, and for different effects. We boldly claim a more successful practice than either of our competitors, and this claim can only be based upon different principles, a different therapeutics, and a different materia medica.

We must, therefore, have distinctive books which clearly state our methods of practice. Old-school works will not serve this purpose, neither will homœopathic. With the pretensions we make, if we can not show that we have such works, and depend on them, we are frauds of the first magnitude.

Now we have a full list of text-books, or books of reference, and by frequent revision they are kept fully up to our practice of to-day. They have been very successful, more so than any American books in the market, and this is the best evidence of their value. They are bought by all schools of medicine, and when bought they are brought into active use.

SPECIAL NOTE.—The prices as given in this catalogue are absolutely net, no discount will be allowed retail purchasers under any consideration. This rule has been established in order that every one will be treated alike, a general reduction in former prices having been made to meet previous retail discounts offered by some dealers. Upon the receipt of the advertised price any book will be forwarded by mail or express, all charges prepaid.

FYFE, JOHN WILLIAM, M. D.

* The Essentials of Modern Materia Medica and Therapeutics.

With Formulary by G. W. BOSKOWITZ, M. D., 12mo, 344 pages. (Issued in 1903), ... Cloth, $2.00

The introduction is at once complete, compact and comprehensive. While nothing superfluous is presented, nothing important has been omitted. The action of medicines, strength, dose, prescription writing, dispensing, incompatibility, etc., are each and all carefully and wisely treated. We like the tone of this book; it is decidedly refreshing, refreshingly decided, conservative without being narrow, liberal without lapsing into promiscuous carelessness and wholesale commendation. For the working practitioner, the busy, every-day doctor, the man of few spare moments and fewer idle ones, we think the general verdict will be Eureka.—Georgia Eclectic Medical Journal.

12mo, Illustrated. 375 pages. Eleventh edition. Price, cloth, $1.50

B. O. Fowler, editor of "The Arena," Boston, says: "A most remarkable book. * * Surpasses, in my judgment, anything that has been written by the elder Dumas or Jules Verne, while in moral purpose it is equal to Hugo at his best. * * It appeals to the thoughtful scientist no less than to the lover of fascinating romance."

† Stringtown on the Pike.

Price, by mail, ... $1.50

A character study of the people of Northern Kentucky. It embraces the superstitions, methods and acts of these people, and is most reliable in its study of human emotions and methods. Fully illustrated with engravings of the people of "Stringtown on the Pike." Judge T. Soule Smith, of Lexington, the best writer in the State, remarks: "No such vivid landscape painting of Kentucky seasons and Kentucky scenery is to be found in any book. The book is a drama of real life under conditions which necessarily make it dramatic.

The editor of "The New Idea," says: "The story is a masterpiece of dialect study."

FELTER, HARVEY W., M. D., Collaborator.
Professor of Anatomy in same.

 Syllabus of Eclectic Materia Medica and Therapeutics.

Second edition. (Revised in 1901.) 12mo, 501 pages, . Price, cloth, $2.50

"We have examined this work with great care, and find it fully up to the standard of the works of the Eclectic School. We do not propose to take this as an opportunity to give a lecture on the advisability of continuing self-limited sectarianism in medicine—our views on this subject are already well known to our readers. We have, however, never read a medical book, even a sectarian one, without receiving benefit from it. Every practftioner should study the therapeutic principles of every school of medicine. He should make the best from each one—the everlasting truth—his own. This book before us contains much that is of value. The Eclectic practitioners deserve lasting credit for having developed the therapeutic virtues of many of our common American plants. This is honor enough for one sect in one country."—Medical World.

SCUDDER, JOHN M., M. D.—Continued.

* The Principles of Medicine.

Sixth edition. 8vo, 350 pages, ... Price, cloth, $1.50; sheep, $2.00

This is a study of the elements of disease and the principles of cure. It is the basis of our practice, and as we think, the practice of the future. It gives a rational basis for medical practice.

* The Eclectic Practice in Diseases of Children.

Seventh edition. 8vo, 486 pages, . . . Price, cloth, $2.50; sheep, $3.00

If there is one thing more than another that we take pride in, it is our success in the treatment of children. The teaching of pleasant remedies, in small doses, for direct effect has relieved thousands of children from the horrors of "regular" medicine.

* A Practical Treatise on the Diseases of Women.

Illustrated by colored plates and numerous wood engravings, with a paper on Diseases of the Breasts. Fifteenth edition, revised. 8vo, 534 pages, ... Price, cloth, $2.75; sheep, $3.50

This work has stood the test of thirty years, and, as revised, gives our treatment of to-day.

* Specific Medication and Specific Medicines.

Fourteenth edition, fourth revision. 12mo, 432 pp., . Price, cloth, $2.00

* Specific Diagnosis.

Ninth edition. 12mo, 388 pages, ... Price, cloth, $1.50

These companion volumes have had a larger sale than any other medical works in this country. They appeal to the feeling every thinking physician cherishes, that there must be something certain in medicine, if it can be discovered. They have had a very marked influence upon medical practice, not only of our own school, but also on regular medicine and homœopathy.

* The American Eclectic Materia Medica and Therapeutics.

Twelfth edition. 8vo, 748 pages, . . . Price, cloth, $4.00; sheep, $4.50

* The Eclectic Practice of Medicine for Families.

Twenty-first edition, . . Price, $3.00; sheep, $4.00; half morocco, $5.00

This work contains all of medicine that a family should know. It is Anatomy, Physiology, Hygiene, Practice, Materia Medica, Surgery and Obstetrics. It is concise, plain and correct, and will not lead to household drugging. Liberal offers to Agents. Write for terms.

* Medicated Inhalations.

Fourth edition, revised, with new Appendix, by Wm. Byrd Scudder, M. D. 8vo, 159 pages, ... Price, cloth, $0.75

"The inhalation of volatile medical substances is a rational method of treating diseases that have heretofore been monopolized by the quacks, and those who degrade the profession of medicine to a commercial level by newspaper advertising. The above book is an endeavor to raise the method to its proper level and field, and to study it scientifically."—Medical Visitor, Chicago.

SCUDDER, JOHN K., M. D.

* Eclectic Medical Journal.

JOHN K. SCUDDER, M. D., Managing Editor, assisted by the Faculty of the Eclectic Medical Institute.

48 to 64 pages, monthly, ... $2.00 per year, in advance

The acknowledged organ of liberal medicine, and a strong advocate of the doctrines of Specific Medication.

THOMAS, ROLLA L., M. D.

Professor of the Practice of Medicine in the Eclectic Medical Institute, Cincinnati.

(Issued 1906.)  The Eclectic Practice of Medicine.

8vo, 1,033 pages, fully illustrated, ... Price, cloth, $6.00; sheep, $7.00

Thomas' Practice is a monumental work. Its size and practical value make it this. No other work will be so nearly indispensable to the busy practitioner as a refresher, and wholly indispensable to the medical student. The old and experienced doctor could exist without it—the medical student can not do so and be just to himself. I confidently predict a phenomenal sale of this modern classic, and especially do I expect it to force its way into the eager hands of medical students. They can not finish their medical education without it.

The Doctor's literary style is plain and simple, but strong and compelling. He has indulged in no dictional scollops, no dizzy subtleties, and no vain theorizing—it is all straight, hard common sense. It throws a volume of light on Specific Medication that makes the work in a sense revelational. Dr. Thomas has put the medical world under a mountain of obligation to him. WILLIAM COLBY COOPER, M. D., Cleves, O.

The mechanical part is fine. The grouping of diseases under their appropriate heads and arrangement of the subject matter enables the busy physician to find just what he wants without delay.

Professor Thomas gives the history, etiology and pathology of diseases in so complete a manner that we have no need now (as heretofore) to consult the works of other schools on these points. Specific Medication, the Eclecticism of the present, is made prominent, while old and tried remedies are not discarded. Eclectics should be proud of this work.

S. M. SHERMAN, M. D., Columbus, O.

WATKINS, LYMAN, M. D.

Professor of Pathology and Physiology in the Eclectic Medical Institute.

* A Compendium of the Practice of Medicine.

Second edition. (Issued 1901.) 12mo, 460 pages, . Price, cloth, $2.50 net

"The Compendium, in clear and concise language, gives a very excellent and suggestive repertory of the specific remedies indicated in the treatment of disease."—N. Y. Medical Times.

"The Compendium or hand-book supplies an actual need, which please do not interpret as a perfunctory platitude. Without the pretension of more elaborate works on Theory and Practice, it is the practical elbow of the hurried every-day practitioner."—Eclectic Medical Gleaner.

"A misconception of the whole idea of Specific Medication, which is rife in some directions, and which leads to its discredit and condemnation, is, that Eclectics claim to have specifics for diseases, according to the popular nomenclature, when in fact no such pretension has ever been made; and it has never been attempted to adapt the theory to certain combinations of symptoms which have received distinctive names as diseases."—Medical Brief.

AFTERMATH OF SLAVERY

By WILLIAM A. SINCLAIR

Size, 5¼ x 7¾ inches; pages, xiii, 358; binding, cloth; price, $1.50 net; by mail, $1.63.

THIS study of the condition and environment of the American Negro, written by one of the ablest of the Negro race, sets forth for the first time an adequate record of the services of the colored man to our country, in peace and in war, what he has accomplished for his own uplifting, and what are his actual needs for the perfection of his development. With copious quotations from the press and from the spoken and written utterances of public men both North and South, expressive of popular opinion regarding impending questions concerning the Negro and his future.

LOUIS AGASSIZ

By ALICE BACHE GOULD

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xviii, 154; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

A GRAPHIC account of the intensely interesting life and work of one of the foremost figures in American scientific history. The biography is full of characteristic touches and of deep human interest, for one is brought into close contact with the delightful personality of the man as well as into an adequate knowledge of his great scientific work.

ALONG THE TRAIL

A BOOK OF LYRICS

By RICHARD HOVEY

Size, 4½ x 7 inches; pages, x, 115; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

ALL of the poems of this little volume are characterized by sincerity, fervor, and lyric grace. They are full of open-air joy, of manly vigor, and of buoyant life. As has been well said of all of Hovey's poetry, "it is pitched in the major keys: he sings the songs of the open air, of battle and comradeship, of love, and of country; and they are all songs well sung."

An ALPHABET of CELEBRITIES

By OLIVER HEREFORD

Size, 7 x 9¼ inches; pages, 58; illustrations, twenty-six full-page line cuts; price, $1.50.

"THE wicked glee with which Mr. Hereford groups persons incongruous and antipathetic and shows them doing things impossible to them, and doing them at the most absurd times and seasons and in places manifestly inaccessible to them, and makes pictures of them, is a thing to shock the Gradgrinds and dismay the Chadbands. Each letter of the alphabet has its group and stanza, and the sober-minded reader turns each leaf in full conviction that jokes must be exhausted and that something serious and truly instructive will appear on the next page, but to him cherishing such visions come only laughter and another jest." The illustrations are by the author, and the book is printed in two colors throughout,—"to divert the reader's mind from the jokes, lest laughter be fatal to him," concludes the New York Times, quoted above.

AN AMERICAN PRIMER

By WALT WHITMAN

Edited, with an introductory note, by HORACE TRAUBEL

Size, 6 x 9¾ inches; pages, ix, 35; binding, paper boards, Japan vellum back; price, $2.00 net; by mail, $2.10.

THE original draft of this interesting book was given to Mr. Traubel by Walt Whitman many years ago, but it was only recently that he discovered that he was in possession of an entirely unpublished manuscript. Upon examination he found that, although the material was in the form of a number of apparently desultory notes, they proved, when arranged consecutively, to possess a definite unity. With facsimile reproductions of the original manuscript. The edition is limited to five hundred copies.

THE ANGLO-BOER CONFLICT

ITS HISTORY AND CAUSES

By ALLEYNE IRELAND

Size, 4¼ x 6¼ inches; pages, ix, 141; binding, paper boards; price, 75 cents.

THIS small book presents a brief and accurate account of the events which led up to the war in South Africa. "It is seldom, indeed," says the New York Tribune, "that one finds a concise handbook and a comprehensive encyclopedia combined in a single volume. But Mr. Ireland has produced it here. Small as the volume is, it contains all that can be required for an adequate understanding of the case, even including many important points not to be found in more extended and pretentious treatises."

ANTING-ANTING STORIES

By SARGENT KAYME

Size, 4½ x 7 inches; pages, vi, 235; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

THESE strange tales of the Filipinos with their romance and mystery have the true Oriental flavor. What Kipling's "Jungle Book" has done for India, these stories have been said to do for the Philippines. The anting-anting is a charm supposed to guard the wearer from harm, in which the native has supreme confidence, and it is around this native conception that the stories are grouped. As a revelation of Filipino character it is striking and complete.

APHRODITE

THE ROMANCE OF A SCULPTOR'S MASTERPIECE

By FRANKLIN K. GIFFORD

(See Red Rover Romances)

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, 351; illustrations, frontispiece; price, regular edition, $1.50; in Red Rover Romances Series, 50 cents net; by mail, 63 cents.

THE story of the progress of an American artist from the humblest beginnings to the achievement of recognition and success is interwoven with a love romance of rare delicacy and beauty. The narrative centres itself in an exquisite Aphrodite and in the artist's inspiration to the creation of his masterpiece. The pictures of studio life in Rome are peculiarly vivid and fascinating, and the realization of the artist's life dream and of his love furnish a denouement of great power and originality.

ARABELLA AND ARAMINTA STORIES

By GERTRUDE SMITH

(See Our Little Neighbors Series)

Size, 6¾ x 8¾ inches; pages, 103; illustrations, fifteen full-page line cuts; price, in cloth binding, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.11; in paper boards, without illustrations, 80 cents net; by mail, 90 cents.

A DELIGHTFUL volume, which has become a children's classic. It has been adopted in school libraries in New York and Wisconsin, and was included in the model library at the St. Louis Exposition. "It is a book which I should think," writes William Dean Howells, "might be more surpassingly loved by the little ones than any book that was ever written for them." With an introduction in verse by Mary E. Wilkins and with a cover design, numerous illustrations, and end-papers by Ethel Reed.

AUCASSIN AND NICOLETTE

A SONG-TALE OF TRUE LOVERS

Translated by M. S. HENRY

Size, 4 x 5½ inches; pages, 79; binding, half Holland paper boards (uniform with Our Lady's Tumbler); price, 75 cents.

THIS translation is from the little-varying old French texts of H. Suchier, Gaston Paris, and F. W. Bourdillon, the verse translation put in rhyme by Edward W. Thomson. This mediæval classic is here for the first time presented without suppression or modification. Critics like Mr. Walter Pater and Mr. George Saintsbury have agreed to call the work a little masterpiece, and the translators have fully caught the spirit of the delicate, mirthful, and passionate original. The Christian Register speaks of it as "altogether sweet and lovely."

JOHN JAMES AUDUBON

By JOHN BURROUGHS

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xvii, 144; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

A VOLUME which possesses double charm in its subject and in its author. No more picturesque life can be found among the pioneers of America than that of the great ornithologist. A brief sketch of his life has long been desired, and it would be difficult to find an author better fitted to inspire interest or to give a more appreciative estimate of Audubon's contribution to science and to America.

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A BEGGAR

Prefaced by Some Account of the Humorous Adventures and Incidents Related in the "Beggars' Club"

By I. K. FRIEDMAN

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, xi, 350; illustrations, eighteen full-page half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

THE book scintillates with wit, and has been well characterized as "irresistibly funny and full of genial human nature in rags." In the illustrations by W. Glackens, he has achieved some of his most distinctive work, with a rare sympathy for the types which he portrays and their essential humor. Contents and pictures taken together constitute a volume of the most enjoyable humor.

BACON CRYPTOGRAMS IN SHAKESPEARE & Other Studies

By ISAAC HULL PLATT

Size, 5 x 7¼ inches; pages, xiii, 124; binding, paper boards; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.07.

THIS little volume is an appeal for fair and honest treatment of the subject of the authorship of Shakespeare. It does not claim to prove that Bacon wrote Shakespeare, and has nothing to do with any fanciful theory of Bacon's parentage. It gives a concise and very interesting account of certain newly found cryptograms (some of which are original discoveries of the author) which seem to indicate that Francis Bacon was in some way concerned in the authorship or publication of the poems and plays known as Shakespeare's. It makes no claim upon the faith or credulity of the reader, as all points are fully elucidated.

THE BIRTH OF GALAHAD

A ROMANTIC DRAMA

By RICHARD HOVEY

Size, 4¼ x 6¾ inches; pages, 124; binding, paper boards; price, $1.50.

ONE of the four volumes making up "Launcelot and Guenevere;" a poem in dramas, of which the other three completed parts are "The Quest of Merlin," "The Marriage of Guenevere," and "Taliesin." Reviewing the first three volumes of this work, George Hamlin Fitch, in the San Francisco Chronicle, said that "they form a drama which is full of the passion and power of Browning, but with much of the charm of Shakespeare's plays. At first blush it seems presumptuous in a young poet to attempt the theme on which Tennyson lavished his best powers, but when one has read Mr. Hovey's poems he sees at once the absolute originality of the younger poet."

BEACON BIOGRAPHIES

The volumes are concise, trustworthy, and entertaining, designed primarily for the general reader who wants a compact statement of essential facts. Of this series the Boston Herald has said: "They contain exactly what every intelligent American ought to know about the lives of our great men." "They interest vividly," adds the Outlook, "and their instruction is surprisingly comprehensive." (See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xviii, 120; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

THIS is the first life of Phillips Brooks by a layman, and on that very circumstance may depend the perspective and the contour of Mr. Howe's picture of the great preacher. All parts of Phillips Brooks's life and character are, at any rate, given their due representation, making up a sketch which, though brief, is a rich and full piece of work. "The best story of Phillips Brooks's life that has yet appeared," says the Boston Transcript.

JOHN BROWN

By JOSEPH EDGAR CHAMBERLAIN

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xv, 138; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

"IF the young American were to be given one book and one only," asserts the Boston Journal, "by which to form a faithful idea of John Brown, this is by all odds the one which ought to be read. He tells the story simply, vividly, with a sympathy sincere and unmistakable, yet not obtrusive. The volume in its brief compass is a wonderfully perfect example of the art of the biographer."

ROBERT BROWNING

By ARTHUR WAUGH

(See Westminster Biographies)

BY THE WAY

I. ABOUT MUSIC II. ABOUT MUSICIANS

By WILLIAM FOSTER APTHORP

Size, 4¼ x 6½ inches; pages, about 175 per volume; binding, cloth; price, 75 cents each, sold separately.

BEING a Collection of Short Essays on Music and Art in General taken from the Program-Books of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. In these Program-Books there has been a department headed "Entr'acte," in which the editor is free to print any sort of matter which he thinks may be of musical interest to the audience, whether especially relevant to the concert or not. The contents of these little volumes are all taken from these "Entr'actes," the aim being to present some thoughts on matters musical and artistic such as will be suggestive of furthering thinking and study on these subjects. Mr. Apthorp has not sought to appeal to the reader's convictions, but to his immediate artistic feelings and impulses. His comments and suggestions are, therefore, as entertaining as they are instructive.

BY-WAYS OF WAR

A STORY OF THE FILIBUSTERS

By JAMES JEFFREY ROCHE

Size, 5¼ x 7½ inches; pages, xii, 251; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

A VALUABLE contribution to American history and remarkable for the fascinating style in which it is told. Upon reading it Richard Harding Davis wrote to the author: "I had intended writing a story of William Walker, but after starting on your book I decided that it had been done for all time. I don't know a book that I value more. Some of the lines and paragraphs are as vivid to me as the lines on Shakespeare's tomb. The description of the Sonora expedition is as wonderful as any story of Stevenson's. It filled me with awe and envy. It is romance, poetry, and history combined, as I do not find it in any other book."

CHANTS COMMUNAL

By HORACE TRAUBEL

Size, 5¼ x 8 inches; pages, 194; binding, paper boards; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.10.

A REPRESENTATIVE collection of prose pieces, radical but constructive, treating of the economic situation of the time and imbued with the spirit and the letter of the communistic ideal. Of severe but optimistic strain, they are not violent or obstructive, but rather like face to face talks with those who would study the industrial problems in the light of historic experience and endeavor to prophesy therefrom their evolution.

THE CHEERFUL CRICKET

AND OTHERS

By JEANNETTE L. MARKS

Size, 8¾ x 10¾ inches; pages, 100; illustrations, twelve full-pages in colors; binding, cloth; price, $2.00.

TO the child loving pictures, the bright colors of nature, and brief stories of small creatures of every-day experience, like the toad, the butterfly, the caterpillar, the bee, this volume, by the professor of English literature at Mount Holyoke College, will be a source of constant and lasting delight. The life and doings of these diminutive creatures are expressed, not in dull natural history facts, but in incident and action which animate every line. With the human-like qualities and feelings which the little actors are seen to possess, the child will surely enter into a more sympathetic knowledge and considerate appreciation. And with the human element in each story goes an unobtrusive little moral that is thus made clear and wholesome. The language is delightful, and the pictures, in four colors, are fascinating. It is indeed a beautiful gift book.

CHURCH BUILDING

By RALPH ADAMS CRAM

Size, 6½ x 9½ inches; pages, xvi, 227; illustrations, many line cuts and half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $2.50 net; by mail, $2.70.

IN this volume is shown the application of the principles of art to every phase of ecclesiastical architecture, successive chapters treating of the country chapel, the village church, the city church, and the cathedral, with further chapters on the church and its fittings, chapels, baptisteries and sacristies, decorations, stained glass, and the altar. Examples of good and of bad church building are shown, including numerous Old World churches and many of later American design.

The illustrations consist of portraits of Whitman and Elias Hicks, views of Whitman's birthplace, his house in Camden, and his tomb, with a facsimile of manuscript. By CHARLOTTE PERKINS GILMAN

Size, 4¾ x 7½ inches; pages, 298; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

A REMARKABLE group of original essays looking toward the better understanding of children and their more sensible and healthy development. A book well worth reading, not only for the soundness of its philosophy, but also for its charm of style and the piquancy of its wit. "Wanted, a philanthropist," exclaims the New York Times, "to give a copy to every English-speaking parent." "Every parent," says the Outlook, "ought to read this book," for, according to the Mail and Express, it is "one of the most helpful books that we have yet seen," and "should be read," adds the New York Press, "by every mother in the land."

DIFFERENCES

By HERVEY WHITE

Size, 5 x 7¾ inches; pages, 311; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

A STORY of social life and conditions in Chicago. Regarding it the Philadelphia Item says that, "if this book is given its deserts, it will live as long as George Eliot's 'Felix Holt.' In many points it can be compared to the great English novelist's story. Such a plot as this has been used before in novels, but never with the virility, the quiet force, or the striking originality with which the subject is treated here. As a novel of social disparities, it probably has few equals in the English language for strength and beauty."

FREDERICK DOUGLASS

By CHARLES W. CHESNUTT

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¼ inches; pages, xix, 141; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

"THOROUGHLY in sympathy with every step of Douglass's upward career, Mr. Chesnutt presents the main episodes of his life with a great deal of warmth and ardor and perfect understanding. The story of his wonderful career could not be better told in this brief way than by Mr. Chesnutt, whose racial sympathies help him to see and feel most deeply the inmost thoughts of the great colored orator."—Boston Herald. "Mr. Chesnutt probably has come nearer to the real man than any one who has described him."—Literary News.

THE DREYFUS STORY

By RICHARD W. HALE

Size, 4¼ x 6½ inches; pages, 78; binding, paper boards; price, 50 cents.

THIS little book, by a leading member of the Boston bar, contains in compact and temperately written form the whole history of the Dreyfus case, with its account of the origin, history, and final results of this dramatic episode. The New York Commercial Advertiser says that "for one who does not care to go into the original sources of information, the book is the best of its kind that has been published." The present is the third edition, brought down to the end of the Rennes trial, and contains a facsimile of Bertillon's diagram.

ADAM DUNCAN, Lord Camperdown

By H. W. WILSON

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xvi, 156; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

THE ELECTRIC THEFT

By NEIL WYNN WILLIAMS

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, 311; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

FOR one who likes action, and not analysis; an unhackneyed plot, original and novel, but reasonably probable; a love romance knit into the thread of incident, with a titanic struggle between two strong rivals, who make the very earth tremble in their efforts for mastery,—for such a one this is a book well worth while. An English engineer is sent to Athens to discover the cause of the theft of electricity from the Athenian Electric Power Company, and after a time he does,—but that is only the beginning of his troubles and of the story. He is an inventor as well as an engineer, and all the resources both of his wit and of his skill are brought into play against the clever cunning of his adversary, who also has marriage in his heart. The scene later shifts to London, whither the stolen electricity is shipped by vessel in accumulators, followed by an underground electric siege of that city (a scientific possibility) as a necessary measure for the subjugation of the engineer's rival—and the winning of the hand of a beautiful girl.

EIGHTEEN MILES from HOME

By WILLIAM T. HODGE

Size, 4½ x 6¾ inches; pages, 230; illustrations, line cut frontispiece; binding, cloth; price, $1.00.

THE hero, Joseph Beecher, an awkward country boy with uncontrollable aspirations as a Shakespearean star, is quite a new type in fiction, and his adventures, from his debut on the stage, as the dupe of a travelling professor of mesmerism, up to the lamentable yet laughable finale of his professional career, stranded only "eighteen miles from home," but in an entangled web of circumstance which makes this meagre distance temporarily untraversable, hold the interested attention throughout, and, in the words of a reader of the manuscript, "almost make you cry, although you can't help laughing at him."

GEORGE ELIOT

THE ETHICS OF EVOLUTION

By JAMES T. BIXBY

Size, 4½ x 7½ inches; pages, 315; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

THIS Study in "The Crisis in Morals occasioned by the Doctrine of Development" has been called by Frances Power Cobbe "the soundest book on ethics issued for years." It has been translated into Japanese, and has received high commendation in Germany and the English-speaking countries. It has appealed particularly to the attention of those to whom the philosophy of Herbert Spencer, as set forth in his Data of Ethics, did not seem adequate. The most valuable part of the volume, however, is the portion given to positive reconstruction of the principles of ethics on the basis of evolution, which is found strongly to fortify the natural and rational sanctions of ethics.

DAVID G. FARRAGUT

By JAMES BARNES

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xviii, 132; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

THE story of the great admiral's life is here presented with spirit and precision by one who has a keen and sympathetic grasp of the life of the sea. It sets forth the salient points of Farragut's career with an abounding element of human interest. "The best short sketch of Farragut's life yet written; indeed, the historian of the future will have a difficult matter before him if he expects to improve on this commendable piece of work."—Nautical Gazette.

FATE

A BOOK OF POEMS

By ADA NEGRI

Size, 4½ x 7 inches; pages, 94; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

TRANSLATED from the Italian by A. M. von Blomberg. The work of Ada Negri is strong and vivid, and makes a direct appeal to the deeper emotions. The translation is faithful to the original, and the verse itself is beautiful English poetry of the best order. The work of this Italian poet has created a sensation in the Continent as well as in Italy. This is the first presentation of it to English readers.

FATHER PINK

By ALFRED WILSON BARRETT

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, 326; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

THIS stirring novel, by the author of The Silver Pin, is a lively narrative of the wily machinations of a seemingly good-natured and harmless priest, who has schemes of his own for the benefit of a favorite niece. Large property rights are involved, together with a hoarded pile of diamonds which have been singularly concealed for safe keeping. The hand of the woman whose property is thus at stake is sought by two eager rivals, whose fortunes are involved in the plot. The custody of the diamonds, when at last found, gives rise to exciting complications, with the priest, Father Pink, as the cleverest actor in the drama. It is by no means an ordinary man who can elude obviously certain capture by backing into a cage of trained lions with whom he had previously made friends for that purpose, and then retreating, without possible pursuit, through a secret passage.

JOHN FISKE

By THOMAS SERGEANT PERRY

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xii, 105; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

FOOTBALL GRANDMA

AN AUTO-BABY-OGRAPHY

Edited by CAROLYN S. CHANNING CABOT

With an introduction by THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON

(See Our Little Neighbors Series)

Size, 6¾ x 8¾ inches; pages, 79; illustrations, twenty-one line cuts; binding, cloth; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.11.

A STORY of child life up to the period of the first pair of trousers. It presents in a lively manner the relations of Tony with his up-to-date grandma, who keeps so abreast of the times that she even plays football with her youthful grandson, and yet retains the spirit of sympathy and comradeship that distinguished the grandmother of earlier days. The illustrations are a unique feature of the book, representing many familiar objects as Tony saw them and drew them according to his own interpretation.

FORTUNE AND MEN'S EYES

NEW POEMS WITH A PLAY

By JOSEPHINE PRESTON PEABODY

Size, 4¾ x 7½ inches; pages, 111; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

AN Elizabethan drama showing, in addition to rare poetic quality, an audacious humor, which will come as a surprise even to those familiar with Miss Peabody's writings. The title is, of course, from Shakespeare's Sonnets; and "The Player" of the drama is none other than "Master W. S." himself, the play presenting the spiritual crisis of the sonnets at a climax on the same afternoon with a bear-baiting in South London. The new poems which complete the volume show a marked advance in power and directness. "It is so good in many ways," says Richard Henry Stoddard, "that it places her not only far before all her poetical sisterhood here, but in the front of all living poets."

FREE TO SERVE

A TALE OF COLONIAL NEW YORK

By EMMA RAYNER

(See Red Rover Romances)

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, 434; binding, cloth; price, regular edition, $1.50; in Red Rover Romances Series, 50 cents net; by mail, 63 cents.

"WE here have," to quote from the New York Independent, "a thorough-going romance of American life in the first days of the eighteenth century. It is a story written for the story's sake, and right well written, too. We do not doubt that it will find plenty of readers who will not care a straw whether its sketches of life are true or merely fanciful. They are interesting, and the tale goes its way at a lively gait. Indians, Dutch, Frenchmen, New England Puritans, all play a part. The scenes are vivid, the incidents novel and many."

THE FUTURE of the AMERICAN NEGRO

By BOOKER T. WASHINGTON

Size, 4¾ x 7¾ inches; pages, 244; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

IN this book Mr. Washington takes up briefly the history of the Negro race in America and its present status. The main body of the book, however, is devoted to the author's ideas as to what will better their condition and to a full explanation of the practical working out of his theories of industrial education as exemplified in his school at Tuskegee. "A work," says the Philadelphia Inquirer, "that should command the attention of every person interested in the future conditions of the United States," for "nothing hitherto published," adds the New York Commercial Advertiser, "is equal to it, and it will be a long time, we think, before any book on this subject will displace it."

A GAGE OF YOUTH

LYRICS FROM "THE LARK" AND OTHER POEMS

By GELETT BURGESS

Size, 3½ x 6¾ inches; pages, viii, 56; binding, flexible leather; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.04.

A COLLECTION of the unique verses which attracted such hearty admiration when first published in The Lark, together with a number of unpublished poems. "The wide range of Mr. Burgess's versatility, from the ridiculous to the sincerest poetry, has never been so well illustrated as by this little volume. As a humorist, he is delightful, but this collection also proves that he may be taken seriously and still win praise."

GEORGIE

By S. E. KISER

Size, 4½ x 6¾ inches; pages, vii, 225; illustrations, eleven full-page line cuts; binding, cloth; price, $1.00.

"THE charm of the book," says the Chicago Tribune, "is the permanent charm of all literature, according to Matthew Arnold's admirable definition. Georgie is a singularly acute and humorous interpretation of the home life led by the American who is neither too rich to be aping the English nor too poor to avoid the other extreme of Europeanism in slum or hovel. The book is worth reading as holding 'a mirror up to nature,' and it is also worth praising because it discloses between its lines a kindly and unspoiled nature on the part of the author."

ULYSSES S. GRANT

By OWEN WISTER

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xvii, 144; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

"IT seems to me," says President Roosevelt of this book, "the very best short biography which has ever been written of any prominent American. A masterpiece of eloquent condensation, without the slightest sacrifice of historical perspective. It is noble in manner and noble in matter." Senator Henry Cabot Lodge adds to this praise by saying that "within the space allotted to him Mr. Wister has given a most striking picture of the man himself. It required much art to draw on such a limited canvas so vivid a portrait. All the essential features are there, thrown into high relief."

THE GRAPES OF WRATH

A TALE OF NORTH AND SOUTH

By MARY HARRIOTT NORRIS

(See Red Rover Romances)

Size 5¼ x 7½ inches; pages, 345; illustrations, six full-page half-tones; binding, cloth; price, regular edition, $1.50; in Red Rover Romances Series, 50 cents net; by mail, 63 cents.

A REALLY great American novel of the Civil War, which will appeal with equal force to-day to the Southern as well as to the Northern reader. The title is, of course, suggested by Mrs. Howe's line,—"He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored." The story is developed from the fortunes, amid the vicissitudes of war, of an old New Jersey family, one son of which had settled in Virginia, becoming a general in Lee's army. There is little fighting and no cheap heroics in the book, but it gives a clearer picture and a more intimate and impressive understanding of what the great struggle really meant to Unionist and to Confederate alike than many a military history.

GRADUATED EXERCISES IN ARTICULATION

By SAMUEL ARTHUR KING

Size, 4½ x 7¼ inches; pages, xi, 84; binding, cloth; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.06.

THE object of this work is to train speakers in accurate and distinct articulation, the basis of good delivery in reading or conversation. The teacher has here at hand a set of practical elementary exercises in the elements of speech and their varied combinations, so arranged as to be progressive in their difficulties. By resolving speech into its primitive elements and concentrating attention on the exact muscular formation of each consonant, any defects in articulation can easily be laid bare and effectually remedied. The Exercises should also prove a great help to singers, among whom a clean-cut articulation is much to be desired, since it comes upon the ear as a positive beauty of song.

By NATHANIEL C. FOWLER, Jr.

(See Red Rover Romances)

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, 332; illustrations, six full-page half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

AS its title will indicate, this is a tale of Yankee push and progress. It is also a vivid story of modern newspaper life. It follows the rise and migrations of an ambitious Cape Cod boy from the conservatism of his native surroundings westward through several New England cities until he finds the field for his life work in a bustling city of the Middle West. Conditions and people are described with keen directness, presenting lifelike pictures of many typical American scenes and personalities.

HARVARD EPISODES

By CHARLES MACOMB FLANDRAU

Size, 4¾ x 7¼ inches; pages, 339; binding, cloth; price, 50 cents net; by mail, 61 cents.

"NOT only 'grads' and 'undergrads' of Harvard," says the Hartford Telegram, "but every college man, past and present, will find delight in reading this book. It contains seven interesting short stories of college life, gracefully and entertainingly told, breathing the healthy university life of an American lad, with its fads and its foibles, its traditions and its pleasures and pastimes. College life at Cambridge is well depicted, and the tone of the stories is distinctly wholesome and sunny."

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE

By Mrs. JAMES T. FIELDS

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xvi, 136; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

"MRS. FIELDS'S brief biography of Hawthorne is in its way a model of what a brief biographic study should be. It conveys all the principal facts in Hawthorne's life, and yet it introduces so much autobiographical matter, so many interesting and significant letters, that the short study has all the interest which is usually secured only in a much more elaborate biography. Mrs. Fields stood very near to Hawthorne, and had exceptional opportunities of understanding his temperament and his habits of work."— The Outlook.

THE HOUSE OF A HUNDRED LIGHTS

By FREDERIC RIDGELEY TORRENCE

Size, 4 x 7¼ inches; pages, 26; binding, paper boards; price, $1.00.

THIS "Psalm of Experience after reading a Couplet of Bidpai" reveals the author, to quote from the New York Globe, "as a young poet of originality and more than ordinary power. Together with these qualities he possesses strong imaginative and meditative moods, joined to a saving sense of humor that has frequently pointed out an artist's way to greatness. Perhaps it is this latter faculty that saves Mr. Torrence from the cynicism that bedecks so many of his confreres of the lyre." With cover, title-page, and decorations by Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue.

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xix, 149; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

HUMOR of BULLS & BLUNDERS

Edited by MARSHALL BROWN

Size, 5¼ x 7¾ inches; pages, 217; binding, cloth (uniform with Wit and Humor of Well-known Quotations); price, $1.20 net; by mail, $1.32.

COMICAL "breaks" of many kinds gathered from all sources, giving ludicrous turns to words and situations: they range from sign lore and anti-climax to epitaphs and the medical profession. "Bulls are among the most laughable forms of humor, and blunders are scarcely less so: ergo, to have a galaxy of both presented in one volume gives one a treasure of fun indeed. This collection is guaranteed to exorcise the worst spell of blues, to make a pessimist grin like a Cheshire cat, and to make that 'dark brown taste' fade into sweetness and light. It is as unusual as it is welcome."—Los Angeles Herald.

The principles underlying the Indian music, as far as they have been deduced, are also given, together with general observations on this hitherto neglected subject. FEW more charming heroines have ever been portrayed in American literature than Barbara Ryche, who is not a Puritan maiden, but the daughter of a Cavalier sent to America as the ward of her uncle, who had settled on an island in Boston Harbor. The story is full of romantic charm and incident, and is a book to delight the lover of colonial literature and to create an interest in this picturesque period even in those who have never before cared for it. The cover design is a reproduction of St. Gaudens's "Puritans."

IN THIS OUR WORLD

By CHARLOTTE PERKINS GILMAN

Size, 5¼ x 7¾ inches; pages, ix, 126; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS, in Harper's Weekly, has called this verse the best civic satire which America has produced since the "Biglow Papers." The present is a new edition, containing many new poems and a portrait of Mrs. Gilman in photogravure. "In this volume," to quote from the Social Forum, "we have a collection of the best work of her poetic genius. The poems are all short, and they have a wide range in subject, style, and form. The high ideals of life and social duty, the scorn of wrong, the belief in the essential brotherhood of man, these poems disclose."

INTIMATIONS OF IMMORTALITY

Compiled by HELEN P. PATTEN

Size, 5¼ x 8¼ inches; pages, 280; binding, paper boards; price, $1.50 net; by mail, $1.63.

WHETHER life is to follow death is a question of perennial interest, and speculation and affirmation upon this unsolved problem have been rife since the dawn of human consciousness. It is natural, therefore, that an immense body of literature should have grown up around it. From this great mass of material the editor of this volume has culled out the brief but salient comments of the great and learned of olden and modern times who have expressed themselves on this subject. The result is a compilation of remarkable diversity and value. The contents are admirably divided into sections, such as "The Testimony of the Ancients," "From the Bibles of Humanity," "The Speculations of Philosophy," "The Voice of the Church," "The Vision of the Poet."

THESE "Verse Stories of the Plain Folk who are keeping Bright the Old Home Fires up in Maine," as the sub-title reads, are more than a book of poetry alone, for the half-hundred new poems grouped in appropriate sections are woven together into a consistent and harmonious unity by a thread of prose comment that gives a picture of the lights and shadows of homely Yankee life such as has never been presented before. See also "Up in Maine" and "Pine Tree Ballads." These three volumes are issued in uniform binding, boxed; price, $3.00 net; by mail, $3.30.

By BLISS CARMAN and RICHARD HOVEY

Size, 4½ x 7 inches; pages, vi, 79; binding, paper boards (uniform with Songs from Vagabondia and More Songs from Vagabondia); price, $1.00.

"THERE is not a bit of intellectual hypochondria in the little book, and there is not one line that was made in the sweat of the brow,—and so the book goes dancing and singing in words, and here and there sounding the deeper note that always fills out the sweet harmony of a poet's thought."—New York Times. "Worthy to take a place alongside their charming and inspiring predecessors," adds the Boston Journal. Regarding a special holiday edition, see note under Songs from Vagabondia.

Thoreau: "I do not believe that all the sermons so-called that have been preached in this land, put together, are equal to it for preaching."

LETTERS from a SELF-MADE MERCHANT to his SON

By GEORGE HORACE LORIMER

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, xiv, 312; illustrations, eighteen full-page half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

THIS remarkable volume, consisting of the "Letters written by John Graham, head of the house of Graham & Company, pork-packers in Chicago, and familiarly known 'on 'change' as 'Old Gorgon Graham,' to his son, Pierrepont, member of the Senior Class of Harvard University, and facetiously known to his fellow-students as 'Piggy,'" brought a new author into the field of American humor, who, by this single work, has won a place among the very highest names in that most distinctive achievement in American literature. The sound philosophy, the quaint and homely aphorisms, and the keenness of the satire make every paragraph incisive and luminous. The author's wholesome advice is so clean-cut, so genuine, and withal so unforgettable that no better book can be placed in the hand of a young man about to begin his struggle for existence; and many an old man who has achieved success in life will find a counterpart to his own experiences in the vivid reminiscences which are liberally intermixed with the sage counsel of the letters. The St. Louis Globe Democrat says of it that "there has been nothing since the wisdom of Franklin that is to be placed in the same class as this common-sense book." Judge remarks that "the father is a philosophic symphony in pork that can write letters that stamp him as a self-made combination of Lord Chesterfield and Josh Billings." And Punch of London adds: "For dry, caustic humor, pithy common sense, and good advice, relieved by excellent stories capitally told, we have not lately read anything that nearly equals these letters."

SPEAKING of the author of this biography and his book, the Boston Herald says that he "has revealed with what we believe to be unprecedented success the charm, the beauty, and the nobility, as well as the power, of General Lee's character and personality, and showed us that his claim to the title of having been one of the greatest Americans rests on the fact that he was one of our finest men, besides being almost our greatest soldier." "So interesting and sympathetic a portrait of the great Southerner," comments the Roanoke Collegian, "that even the indifferent or hostile will desire to know more of him."

LITTLE BEASTS OF FIELD AND WOOD

By WILLIAM EVERETT CRAM

Size, 5¼ x 7½ inches; pages, xx, 261; illustrations, twenty-four full-page line cuts; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

A RECORD of the author's personal observation of the life of small creatures in New England, in which he goes minutely into their habits, their food, their manner of obtaining it, their houses, and similar details of animal life. The book is filled with interesting facts about these little creatures which the untrained observer does not see or know, and the knowledge of which increases one's admiration of animal nature. "There could be hardly anything better calculated," remarks the Advance, "to train a child's power of observation, and to inspire him with a healthy and intelligent interest in natural life."

THE LOOM OF DESTINY

By ARTHUR J. STRINGER

Size, 4½ x 6¾ inches; pages, 208; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

"THESE stories of the little people who struggle and suffer are mostly sorrowful. Written out of a great sympathy with the child-heart, they show us young spirits who have seen their ambitions trampled on and who know the pang of unstilled longing, but who are quite as heroic in endeavor, patient in endurance, and faithful in love as the worthy people who are fighting the world's battles and bearing the day's heavy burden. It is a book to make the author's literary art and his true tenderness of heart alike respected, and to set the reader dreaming concerning the deep things of life."—Cleveland Index.

LOVE SONNETS

A GROUP OF MEMORABLE POEMS

Size, 6 x 7¾ inches; binding, Japan wrappers or paper boards; price, per volume, $2.00 net; by mail, $2.10.

ONE of the primary objects of this series is to furnish in a worthy setting those love sonnets of our own language which have sung themselves into a permanent abiding place in the human heart. While praiseworthy to have these poems furnished in very inexpensive editions, the publishers believe that it is equally commendable to make them available, at a moderate price, in editions which shall represent the perfection of typographical and artistic workmanship,—as the most desirable and appropriate form for permanent presentation in the library. With a handsome face of type, with beautiful paper, with initial letters and border designs by Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue, and with an attractive and dignified binding, these volumes will be a delight to the book-lover. Descriptions of individual volumes can be found under their respective titles. The list is as follows:

THE HOUSE OF LIFE (out of print)	By Dante Gabriel Rossetti
ESTHER: together with the LOVE SONNETS OF PROTEUS	By Wilfred Scawen Blunt
SONNETS FROM THE PORTUGUESE	By Elizabeth Barrett Browning

LOVE SONNETS OF TO-DAY

Edited by LAURENS MAYNARD

(See Love Sonnets Series.)

Size, 6 x 7¾ inches; pages, 100; binding, paper boards; price, $2.00 net; by mail, $2.10.

LOVE seems to be the strain of the song of the modern poet no less than that of the ancient bard, and no form of verse is, perhaps, a more perfect embodiment for rhymed expression of this sentiment than the sonnet. In this volume, with the handsome setting which is the characteristic feature of this series, are brought together into a brilliant galaxy the star love sonnets of nearly one hundred poets of the present day, both British and American. It is a notable group of poems and of authors, giving varied expression to vision and to experience, and yet interwoven into a single theme, that primal underlying passion of the human heart.

THE LOVER'S RUBAIYAT

Edited by JESSIE B. RITTENHOUSE

Size, 3¾ x 7¼ inches; pages, viii, 20; binding, paper boards; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

THIS "book for sweethearts and unforgetting folk who would gather joy's wind-strewn petals to fashion again the rose" is an entirely novel setting of certain of the lesser known quatrains of Omar in the form of a spendid Persian love poem, having all the coherence and the atmosphere of the work of a single translator, although in reality it is the blended work of ten different hands. Beautifully printed in two colors, with decorations and ornamental cover.

LOW TIDE ON GRAND PRE
AND
BALLADS OF LOST HAVEN

By BLISS CARMAN

Size, 4½ x 7¼ inches; pages, 117; illustrations, half-tone frontispiece; binding, Strathmore Japan boards; price, $1.50 net; by mail, $1.60.

MR. CARMAN'S two earliest books contain much of the work which gained him his most appreciative recognition from the critics, and many of these poems are worthy to endure with the best poetry of his generation. The original editions having gone out of print, their contents are here presented in a single volume, with a fine portrait of the author. Of his "Ballads of Lost Haven" the Nation says that it is "a hundred pages of salt sea without a trace of Kipling, and yet having a sea flavor as unmistakable as his and with a finer touch,—with less of repetition, less of mere technicality, and a more varied human interest."

More SONGS from VAGABONDIA

By BLISS CARMAN and RICHARD HOVEY

Size, 4½ x 7 inches; pages, viii, 72; binding, paper boards (uniform with Songs from Vagabondia and Last Songs from Vagabondia); price, $1.00.

"THESE gentlemen have something to say, and they say it in a hale and ready way that is as convincing as it is artistic. One is not met at every turn by some platitude laboriously wrought, which the minor poets nowadays so delight in, but a ring and a cheer and a manner neither obscure nor commonplace, with just enough mystery to delight and stimulate the imagination without overtaxing it."— Washington Star. Regarding a special holiday edition, see note under Songs from Vagabondia.

SAMUEL F. B. MORSE

By JOHN TROWBRIDGE

Mr. DOOLEY in the HEARTS of his COUNTRYMEN

By PETER FINLAY DUNNE

Size, 4½ x 7 inches; pages, xi, 285; binding, cloth; price, 50 cents net; by mail, 60 cents.

"THE depression that could prevail against the influence of 'Mr. Dooley's' ebullient drollery, gay wisdom, and rich brogue would be profound indeed, and its victim would be an altogether hopeless case," says the London World. "His new book," adds the London Academy, "shows no falling off: his wit is as nimble as ever, his eye as quick to note incongruities, his satire as well directed and as brilliant."

Mr. DOOLEY in PEACE and in WAR

By PETER FINLAY DUNNE

Size, 4½ x 7 inches; pages, xxiii, 260; binding, cloth; price, 50 cents net; by mail, 60 cents.

"THE author has a place in the great school of American philosophic humor," says James L. Ford in the Book-Buyer, and the reason for this is given in the Saturday Evening Post, which remarks that "he is not only a humorist, droll, dry, eminently racial, but he is the master of a shrewd and wise philosophy of life," with the result, as Harry Thurston Peck asserts in the Bookman, that he "has made a genuine contribution to permanent literature."

JOHN HENRY NEWMAN

By A. R. WALLER and G. H. S. BURROW

(See Westminster Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xviii, 150; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

THE NIBELUNGENLIED

Translated by JOHN STORER COBB

Size, 6 x 8¼ inches; pages, xii, 640; binding, cloth; price, $2.00 net; by mail, $2.25.

THE Nibelungen poem is the only great national epic that the people of Europe have produced since antiquity. It is a monument of the highest interest for the history of the development of the human mind, for it permits one better than any other to understand the processes of the formation of epic poetry. It belongs not alone to Germany, but also to every country which has been peopled by Germanic tribes, for it includes the heroic traditions of the Franks, the Burgundians, and the Goths, and in it are the memorials of the ancient myths that the victorious race carried with them in quitting the Asiatic plateau. The translator has followed the original literally, phrase by phrase, without avoiding the negligences, the obscurities, the repetitions, that it presents, this actual reconstruction of the original serving best to transport us to the time with which the poem deals.

THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

AN UTOPIAN RETROSPECT

By HAVELOCK ELLIS

Size, 4½ x 7¼ inches; pages, 166; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

AN exceedingly clever and searching criticism of the civilization of the late century through the medium of a supposed discussion, centuries hence, between two students of antiquities living in an imaginary Utopia. "His little book will make wholesome reading," says the Chicago Evening Post: "He exaggerates, of course, for he is terribly in earnest; but there is much truth in his picture."

THE NORSK NIGHTINGALE

BEING THE LYRICS OF A "LUMBERYACK"

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

Size, 4½ x 7¼ inches; pages, viii, 66; illustrations, four full-page half-tones; binding, Japanese wood boards; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

NEARLY every type of homely American life, native or imported, has already been given an opportunity to sing its own dialect. One character, by no means the least picturesque, has heretofore been mute. It has remained for Mr. Kirk to show that the Norwegian laborer of the Northwestern forests is as amusing and as well fitted for expression in verse as Mr. Drummond's "Habitant" or Mr. Riley's "Hoosier." The poems in this little book include pictures of the "Lumberyack's" work-aday life and of his joys, his loves, and his sorrows. In addition to his lyrical expression of his own experiences, the "Norsk Nightingale" recites his versions of many of the romantic tales of history, and translates into his own vernacular, often with amazing results, many of the great poems of English and American literature.

NORTHLAND LYRICS

By WILLIAM CARMAN ROBERTS, THEODORE ROBERTS, and ELIZABETH ROBERTS MACDONALD

With a Prologue by CHARLES G. D. ROBERTS and an Epilogue by BLISS CARMAN

Size, 5¾ x 7½ inches; pages, vii, 86; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

"A REMARKABLE book," is the comment of the Chicago Times Herald: "Four authors contribute, all of them belonging to that Canadian school that has produced much of the best in recent poetry. There are upward of eighty of these lyrics, all distinguished by genuine poetic feeling and marked by a certain freshness and vigor which is their chief charm, for they are redolent of the Northland, with its great stars, its spruce-clad hills, and its red-coned tamaracks. The influence of nature is strongly felt in these poems. The houses and streets of the city disappear when one reads such a gem, and he finds himself standing out under the wide sky."

NOTES AND FRAGMENTS

LEFT BY WALT WHITMAN

Edited by RICHARD MAURICE BUCKE

Size, 8 x 11½ inches; pages, 211; binding, cloth; price, $10.00 net; by mail, $10.20.

A BOOK to be valued by all Whitman readers and students as one which completes his works, giving, as it does, a final insight into the poet's life and ideals. There are but a few copies remaining of the 225 issued for private circulation, and the price is subject to advance without notice.

ON THE BIRDS' HIGHWAY

By REGINALD HEBER HOWE, Jr.

OUR LADY'S TUMBLER

A TALE OF MEDIÆVAL FRANCE

Translated by ISABEL BUTLER

Size, 4 x 5½ inches; pages, 40; binding, half Holland paper boards (uniform with Aucassin and Nicolette); price, 75 cents.

THIS, the second translation of this old legend (the first being unobtainable), has been made in order that so beautiful a story may not be lost to English readers. It relates how a minstrel, a tumbler, whose aspiring soul takes him from the wickedness of the world, enters a monastery, where disappointment meets him, for he is wholly unlettered, and cannot join in the worship with prayer and anthem. He is wretched indeed. Only one thing can he do well: as a minstrel, he can dance and tumble. To express his love and worship, he in solitude dances just the best he can before a statue of the Lady Mary. It is then told how this departure from the letter of worship was received by the pious monks and by the angels of heaven.

OUR LITTLE NEIGHBORS

A CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Size, 6¾ x 8¾ inches; illustrations, numerous full-page line cuts; binding, cloth; price per volume, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.11.

A SYMPATHETIC understanding of a child's mind, coupled with the ability to put into entertaining child language the ideas to be conveyed, is by no means common. It requires something of a psychologist, even though we do not stop for analysis, to be a natural story-teller who can really delight the children either by spoken or written word. Often books for the young fail to interest or amuse, without an adult always being able to tell why. When, therefore, there are grouped into a little library the books of several "tried and true" story-tellers for children,—books, too, which have already proved their acceptability to a young audience,—the result is to save the perplexed parent numerous experimental purchases. Descriptions of the individual volumes can be found under their respective titles. The list is as follows:

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xv, 150; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

"PAINE'S story is told in a thoroughly clear, taking, and succinct way. The style is crisp, laconic, and unfettered. There is no attempt to exalt or even to defend. The really significant things in Paine's life and acts, and their bearing upon and connection with events, is seen with good penetration."—Boston Transcript.

PARIS and the SOCIAL REVOLUTION of TO-DAY

A STUDY OF THE REVOLUTIONARY ELEMENT IN THE VARIOUS CLASSES OF PARISIAN LIFE

By ALVAN FRANCIS SANBORN

Size, 6½ x 9¾ inches; pages, xix, 404; illustrations, many etchings and line cuts; binding, cloth; price, $3.50 net; by mail, $3.75.

DURING several years of his residence in Paris the author has made a special study of the French revolutionary element, as exemplified in all the strata of Parisian society, from the anarchist laborer to the leading writers and artists of France, many of whom, while in no way classified as socialists or anarchists, are just as truly revolutionary in spirit. Mr. Sanborn here tells us who and what the revolutionist is, what he wants and how he expects to get it, and how he gets himself heard. He shows what part in the revolutionary movement is being taken by the laborer, the criminal, the student, and by the literature and the art of to-day. The chapters on modern literary and artistic life in the French metropolis give a new light upon these most interesting subjects. While the study is of foreign life, its appeal has no limitations of nationality. In portraying conditions in Paris, it discloses the principles of human nature that underlie feelings of unrest which are world-wide in their manifestation, and its interpretation of these principles will prove full of suggestion to the thinking American who wishes to understand the trend of radical thought in his own country. The remarkable drawings by Vaughn Trowbridge greatly enhance the text. "The flavor of Paris is over the book," says the Chicago Tribune; "Mr. Sanborn has caught the spirit of this life, and he writes with the grace of a Frenchman." "A study of unusual thoroughness into the conditions of Parisian life below the surface," to quote from the Outlook; "here is abundant food for reflection by social philosophers." "Its perusal," adds the Philadelphia North American, "is like gazing at one of Verestchagin's paintings."

PINE TREE BALLADS

By HOLMAN F. DAY

Size, 4½ x 7¼ inches; pages, xii, 256; illustrations, eight full-page half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.10.

THE "Rhymed Stories of Unplaned Human Natur' up in Maine" making up this volume are fully equal to the high standard which Mr. Day set for himself in his previous book of verse. As the Buffalo Commercial has well said, "his subjects are rough diamonds. They have the inherent qualities from which great characters are developed, and out of which heroes are made." See also Up in Maine and Kin o' Ktaadn. These three volumes are issued in uniform binding, boxed; price, $3.00 net; by mail, $3.30.

PLAIN TALK IN PSALM AND PARABLE

By ERNEST HOWARD CROSBY

Size, 5¾ x 8¾ inches; pages, 188; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

"I LIKE the book very, very much," says Count Tolstoy: "Some of the pieces — the choice is difficult because all are very good — I have translated into Russian and published." "It is full of gems of thought," remarks Civic and Social Problems, "gems from a literary point of view, gems from the view of that New Social conscience which is the characteristic of modern thought. It is a work of genius and full of the spirit of true democracy which is true Christianity."

POEMS

By JOHN B. TABB

Size, 4¼ x 5½ inches; pages, xi, 172; binding, cloth; price, $1.00.

"FINE, shy, recluse observation of nature and of men. These are poems like Herrick or Vaughan in their delicate perfection, — pieces of almost flawless chiselling." — The Nation. And also from the London News: "Mr. Tabb's works live. Sidney Lanier and Mr. Tabb are, so far, the most poetical poets who have chanced to be Americans." After such comments we need not be surprised when Mr. John Wilson of the University Press, Cambridge, states that never but once before during his business life of more than fifty years has he been called upon to print so many editions of a "first book" of American verse within so short a time after its publication.

THE QUEST OF MERLIN

A MASQUE

By RICHARD HOVEY

Size, 4¼ x 6¾ inches; pages, 80; binding, paper boards; price, $1.25.

THE first of the four volumes making up "Launcelot and Guenevere," a poem in dramas, of which the other three completed parts are "The Marriage of Guenevere," "The Birth of Galahad," and "Taliesin." "When The Quest of Merlin and The Marriage of Guenevere first appeared, few were attentive to the boldness of aim and largeness of utterance which characterized these poems. Since then Mr. Hovey has followed his art with patience and singleness of purpose till at last the virile force of his achievements begins to compel recognition. And though greatness is the very last quality which a prudent critic should admit in a contemporary, it is my conviction that Mr. Hovey succeeds in his effort."—Charles G. D. Roberts, in The Bookman.

QUICKSAND

By HERVEY WHITE

Size, 5 x 8 inches; pages, 328; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

A POWERFUL, realistic novel of Western life,—not merely the story of an individual, but of the life history of a family. The growth and education of a boy (reared by his grandparents as their son and in ignorance of the tragedy of his mother's death and his own birth), his struggle for recognition as a writer, and finally the tragic incidents which end his life form the current of the book. But the other characters are no less interesting: the kindly and faithful hired man, the quiet father, the energetic mother, the brother and sisters, all are drawn with infinite detail and remarkable vividness. Of the author the Chicago Post asserts that he is "the most forceful writer who has appeared in American literature for a long generation."

Such books are worth reading over and over again. Descriptions of the individual volumes can be found under their respective titles Others will be added from time to time. The list is as o ows

THE ROAD TO RIDGEBY'S

By FRANK BURLINGAME HARRIS

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, x, 334; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

A SIMPLE but powerful story of farm-life in the great West, full of heroism of homely life,— a book to make the reader better by strengthening his belief in the survival of sturdy American character. It does for the wheat-fields of Iowa what David Harum has done for rural New York and Eben Holden for the North country. It is in no way imitative of either of these books, and, unlike each of them, it is not in the portrayal of a single quaint character that its power consists. Mr. Harris took for his story a typical Iowa farmer's family and their neighbors; and, although every one of the characters is realistically portrayed, the sense of proportion is never lost sight of, and the result is a picture of real life, artistic in the highest sense as being true to nature.

A REPORT on COLONIAL ADMINISTRATION in the FAR EAST

By ALLEYNE IRELAND, F.R.G.S.

Number of volumes, twelve; size, 6½ x 10½ inches; pages, 500 (approx.) per volume; illustrations, two colored maps in each volume; price per volume when sold in sets, $10.00 net; volumes sold separately, $12.50 net; carriage, 35 cents per volume additional.

HERETOFORE no adequate and comprehensive report on the governmental administration of Eastern dependencies has been available in the English language. The growing importance of Eastern colonial problems to Western nations has led to the preparation of this work by the foremost English authority on the subject of comparative colonization, the author of Tropical Colonisation, The Far Eastern Tropics, and other works. He has spent years in actual residence in the Far East, where he has been enabled, with the co-operation of the highest government officials, to make a personal study and observation at first hand. This Report is, therefore, written from practical experience and intimate acquaintance with the wide range of problems with which it deals. It covers exhaustively the British, French, Dutch, and American possessions in the tropical regions of the Far East, including Burma, Hong Kong, British North Borneo, Sarawak, the Federated Malay States, the Straits Settlements, French Indo-China, Java, and the Philippines. This wide range of enquiry thus includes the colonial methods under every form of dependent government in force in any part of the tropics, including the Crown Colony, Chartered Company, Protected, Indian Provincial, the Residential, and the Commission Systems. Topics such as Taxation, the Administration of Justice, Public Works, Irrigation, Municipal Government, Police, and Prisons, as conducted in these various dependencies, are all adequately and exhaustively treated, together with chapters on Commerce, Trade, and Shipping, and the natural resources of each dependency. Copious statistical and bibliographical appendices, dealing with such matters as Contract Labor, Civil Service, Finances, and similar subjects are included. The Report will not exceed twelve volumes, the first two of which are to be ready simultaneously in the autumn of 1906, the other volumes to follow at the rate of about two a year. The price per volume on subscriptions registered for the entire set is $10.00 net, payable on delivery. The price of single volumes, when sold separately, is $12.50 net; carriage, 35 cents additional. A prospectus and other descriptive matter will be forwarded upon application.

The poems have the perfection of delicate flowers, and are full of a poetic ecstasy and deep religious fervor, which will carry them to all Christian hearts, irrespective of creed. The decorative drawings by Thomas B. Meteyard are quite mediæval in their spirit, and are in perfect harmony with the mysticism of the verse. The edition is limited to 300 copies on hand-made paper.

He tells the story himself, with a supplementary narrative by one of the other characters of the story for the final clearing up of the mystery.

SELECTIONS from the PROSE and POETRY of WALT WHITMAN

Edited with an introduction by OSCAR LOVELL TRIGGS

Size, 5¼ x 8¼ inches; pages, xliii, 257; illustrations, frontispiece portrait of Whitman; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

DR. TRIGGS has made a book which is entirely representative of Whitman's many-sided genius and at the same time attractive to the general reader. In the choice of poems the effort has been made to preserve, in the character and arrangement of the pieces selected, the general scheme which governed Whitman's last revision of Leaves of Grass. It was a difficult and delicate task, but one which was essential to any really useful selection of Whitman's poetry, and it has been accomplished by the editor in a way that will satisfy every student of Whitman. The book is recommended to any one who desires a general knowledge of Whitman's writings without perusing his entire works.

"HAIL to the poets! Good poets! Real poets!" acclaims the New York Times. "They are the free, untrammelled songs of men who sing because their hearts are full of music; and they have their own way of singing, too. Songs from Vagabondia ought to go singing themselves into every library from Denver to both seas, for they are good to know."

NOTE.—A special holiday edition of this book, together with its two companion volumes, More Songs from Vagabondia and Last Songs from Vagabondia, has been bound in rough-finished olive brown calfskin, gilt top, with side stamp in gold. SONNETS from the PORTUGUESE

By ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING

(See Love Sonnets Series)

Size, 6 x 7¾ inches; pages, 51; binding, Japan wrappers (uniform with Shakespeare's Sonnets); price, $2.00 net; by mail, $2.06.

"I AM disposed to consider the Sonnets from the Portuguese," says Edmund Clarence Stedman, in Victorian Poets, "as, if not the finest, a portion of the finest subjective poetry in our literature. Their form reminds us of an English prototype, and it is no sacrilege to say that their music is showered from a higher and purer atmosphere than that of the Swan of Avon.... In fine, the Portuguese Sonnets, whose title was a screen behind which the singer poured out her full heart, are the most exquisite poetry hitherto written by a woman, and of themselves justify us in pronouncing their author the greatest of her sex." The edition, on hand-made paper, with borders and initial letters by Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue, is limited to 500 copies.

STELLA'S ADVENTURES IN STARLAND

By ELBRIDGE H. SABIN

Size, 6 x 7¾ inches; pages, 175; illustrations, full-page line cuts; price, $1.50.

FOR children up to the age of fifteen it would be hard to find a more entertaining book than this, for the author has both the art and the heart for telling a child's story. Prompt action, frequent incident, bright conversation, do not allow curiosity to flag. Although Stella goes on an imaginary journey to the sky, the personages she sees there are wonderfully human and natural, and her talks and experiences with those whom she meets have a remarkable element of normal human interest. Mercury the Messenger Boy, Ill-tempered Mr. Moon, Venus and her School, Mr. Mars, and Neptune are characters that, along with the pictures, will delight any child.

TALIESIN

A MASQUE

By RICHARD HOVEY

Size, 4¼ x 6¾ inches; pages, 58; binding, paper boards; price, $1.00.

THE last of the four volumes making up "Launcelot and Guenevere," a poem in dramas, of which the first three are "The Quest of Merlin," "The Marriage of Guenevere," and "The Birth of Galahad." "No living poet," to quote Richard Henry Stoddard in the New York Mail and Express, "whose mother tongue is English has written finer things than are scattered through Taliesin, particularly through its harmonious blank verse; and whatever may be thought of it now, the future historian of American poetry will have to reckon seriously with Richard Hovey."

TERRITORIAL ACQUISITIONS of the UNITED STATES

By EDWARD BICKNELL

AN historical review which gives in detail and without prejudice the story of the growth of the United States through its acquisitions of territory. "A little volume," remarks the Western Christian Advocate, "crammed with exactly the information which many who are interested in the political development of the country are searching through libraries for."

THEIR SHADOWS BEFORE

A STORY OF THE SOUTHAMPTON INSURRECTION

By PAULINE CARRINGTON BOUVÉ

Size, 4¾ x 7½ inches; pages, 202; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

THIS novel tells the stirring story of the negro insurrection, headed by Nat Turner in Virginia in 1831, as it was seen by a little girl—the heroine—who was a "part of it." "It is an admirable story," says the Commercial Tribune: "Setting aside its historical interest, its charm as mere fiction justifies enthusiasm. It is a long time since a story has appeared in which there was so constantly present that exquisite simplicity wherein dwells the real elegance of style. The action moves as easily, but as surely, as does the gathering of a summer storm. And one of the very best things in the book is the sense of reality surrounding the figure of the child."

THEOLOGY at THE DAWN OF the TWENTIETH CENTURY

Edited by J. VYRNWY MORGAN

Size, 5¾ x 9½ inches; pages, xliv, 544; binding, cloth; price, $2.50.

A SYMPOSIUM of important original essays by eminent theologians of the United States and Great Britain on the great and fundamental questions in religion, showing the present status of theology and how far religion and theology have been influenced by the progress of scientific research. The questions discussed represent almost all aspects of theology and of the ministry. The subjects have been arranged so as to give the discussion a systematic completeness. These essays show the scientific drift at the close of the nineteenth century, together with its bearing upon the intellectual and ethical movements of the time.

A ROMANCE of love and daring in the Viking days, with Leif Ericsson's famous voyage as the leading motive in a story of unusual power. The THEORY of ADVERTISING

By WALTER DILL SCOTT

Size, 5¼ x 8¼ inches; pages, xii, 240; illustrations, sixty-one reproductions of advertisements; binding, cloth with leather back; price, $2.00 net; by mail, $2.15.

THIS "Simple Exposition of the Principles of Psychology in their Relation to Successful Advertising," by the Director of the Psychological Laboratory of Northwestern University, is the most practical and useful book on this important subject that has yet appeared. Its special value will not be limited to those who make advertising a profession, to whom it would seem to be an indispensable handbook, but it offers much needed help to every business man. In simple terms and plain language it explains the psychological effect of advertisements, and illustrates in a practical way the general principles which underlie the whole subject, thereby enabling the reader to make an intelligent application of these principles to the requirements of the particular case in hand. Copiously illustrated with the reproductions of actual recent advertisements, which are criticised in the light of the general principles discussed.

THE TROPHIES

SONNETS BY JOSE MARIA DE HEREDIA

Translated by FRANK SEWALL

Size, 6 x 8 inches; pages, xv, 133; binding, paper boards; price, $2.50 net; by mail, $2.58.

AN English version of the remarkable sonnets which in 1893 won for Heredia his admission to the Academy, and which have alone sufficed to place him among the most eminent of the French poets of any age. Of the translator's work the Boston Journal says: "Notable for its literal grace and beauty. It was no small feat to transform these two salient marks for Heredia's verse into another language. They show that the best French verse, like the best French prose, is matchless in modern literature." The present issue is a sumptuous edition, which has deservedly taken rank among the very highest achievements of American typography. The decorations and initial letters are by Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue, and the edition is limited to 750 copies on hand-made paper.

TUSKEGEE

By MAX BENNETT THRASHER

With an Introduction by BOOKER T. WASHINGTON

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, xvi, 215; illustrations, fifty half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $1.00.

THIS school is one of the most uniquely interesting institutions in America. Begun, twenty years ago, by Booker T. Washington, in two abandoned, tumble-down houses, with thirty untaught Negro men and women for its students, it has become one of the famous educational institutions of the country. The author has given the history of the Institute from its foundation, explained the practical methods by which it gives industrial training, and then has shown some of the results which the Institute has accomplished. "The book is of the utmost value to all those who desire and hope for the development of the Negro race in America."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

UP IN MAINE

By HOLMAN F. DAY

Size, 4½ x 7¼ inches; pages, xv, 209; illustrations, six full-page half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.10.

THESE "Stories of Yankee Life told in Verse" comprise a volume that achieved instant success and won for its author a place beside James Russell Lowell and James Whitcomb Riley in the expression of homely American life. The New York Sun refers to the volume as "Maine in the phonograph." The Nation speaks of these poems as "so fresh, so vigorous, and so full of manly feeling that they sweep away all criticism." With an introduction by Congressman C. E. Littlefield. See also "Pine Tree Ballads" and "Kin o' Ktaadn." These three volumes are issued in uniform binding, boxed; price, $3.00 net; by mail, $3.30.

VIVETTE

By GELETT BURGESS

Size, 4 x 6¼ inches; pages, 152; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

THE sub-title reads: "The Memoirs of the Romance Association: Setting forth the diverting Adventures of one Richard Redforth in the very pleasant City of Millamours; how he took Service in the Association; how he met and wooed the gay Vivette; how they sped their Honeymoon and played the Town; how they spread a mad Banquet; of them that came thereto, and the Tales they told; of the Exploits of the principal Characters, and especially of the Disappearance of Vivette." "Mr. Burgess displays infinite zest and exhaustless resources of invention, and hurries his readers breathlessly along, from one astonishing and audacious situation to another, till the book is flung down at the end with a chuckle of appreciative laughter." The maps, cover design, and ornaments are also the work of the author.

VISITING THE SIN

A TALE OF MOUNTAIN LIFE IN KENTUCKY AND TENNESSEE

By EMMA RAYNER

(See Red Rover Romances)

Size, 5¼ x 7¾ inches; pages, 448; binding, cloth; price, regular edition, $1.50; in Red Rover Romances Series, 50 cents net; by mail, 63 cents.

THE struggle between the heroine's love and her determination to visit the sin upon the son of the supposed murderer of her father forms the basis of the story. All the characters are vividly drawn, and the action of the story is wonderfully dramatic and lifelike. The period is about 1875. "A powerful, well-sustained story," the Philadelphia North American says, "the interest in which does not flag from the first chapter to the last," to which praise the Congregationalist adds, "unusually powerful; the dramatic plot is intricate, but not obscure." "Far ahead," says the Southern Star, "of most of these latter-day Southern novels."

WALT WHITMAN'S DIARY IN CANADA

Edited with an introductory notice

By WILLIAM SLOANE KENNEDY

Size, 6 x 9¼ inches; pages, vi, 73; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece of Whitman; binding, paper boards, Japan vellum back; price, $2.50 net; by mail, $2.60.

THE value of this recently discovered manuscript of the "good gray poet," now first published, will not be underestimated by any one familiar with his prose writings. It is generally conceded that Walt Whitman's nature notes, as recorded in his Specimen Days in America, form some of his most attractive work. The Diary in Canada was written in a chunky, home-made note-book, which Whitman carried in his pocket during his memorable trip over Lakes Erie and Ontario, down the St. Lawrence and up the Saguenay, in the summer of 1886. The material is entirely new, only a couple of pages in Specimen Days being devoted to the entire trip. It has the autobiographic charm of all Whitman's lighter and spontaneous work, and, showing him as a tourist, supplies a missing chapter in his experience, and rounds out the story of his life. The edition is limited to 500 copies.

WANDERFOLK IN WONDERLAND

By EDITH GUERRIER

(See Our Little Neighbors Series)

Size, 6¾ x 8¾ inches; pages, 123; illustrations, twenty line cuts; binding, cloth; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.11.

THE WARD OF KING CANUTE

By OTTILIE A. LILJENCRANTZ

(See Red Rover Romances)

Size, 5½ x 8¼ inches; pages, 382; illustrations, frontispiece in colors; binding, cloth; price, 50 cents net; by mail, 63 cents.

THIS book is for those who are weary of conventional romances and are searching for a tale that does not give them the dusty and worn-out historic trappings with which they are over-familiar. The story of Randalin, the beautiful Danish maiden who served King Canute disguised as a page, is spontaneous and unhackneyed, and has a mediæval atmosphere of the most inspiring kind. The reader forgets his practical, twentieth-century point of view, and loses himself in the glamour of these brave old days of the Danish conquest.

JOSIAH WARREN

THE FIRST AMERICAN ANARCHIST

By WILLIAM BAILIE

Size, 4¼ x 6½ inches; pages, xxxviii, 135; illustrations, two full-page half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.06.

PROBABLY few people realize that the founder and original teacher of Philosophical Anarchism belonged to the famous Warren family of Boston and was born in that city in 1798. His services in the cause of liberty were recognized by men so eminent as John Stuart Mill, who embodied many of Warren's teachings in his own writings. His life has never before been published, and his writings have been long out of print. Mr. Bailie thus renders a distinct service to sociological literature. From scanty and widely scattered sources of information he has gathered the essential facts of Warren's career, and he has subjected his philosophy to a critical comparison with the teachings of the leading social reformers of the 19th century, dealing with his subject without partisan bias.

WASHINGTON'S FAREWELL ADDRESS

WITH A PREFATORY NOTE

By WORTHINGTON CHAUNCEY FORD

Size, 4¼ x 6¼ inches; pages, x, 32; illustrations, frontispiece facsimile of manuscript; binding, paper boards; price, 30 cents net; by mail, 34 cents.

DANIEL WEBSTER

By NORMAN HAPGOOD

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xvi, 119; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

MR. HAPGOOD writes vigorously and yet impartially, presenting the life of Webster as it is revealed in the light of time. He traces all the public and private influences and acts which went to the shaping of Webster's great career, and is likewise faithful in his chronicle of the subsequent events which brought disappointment and bitterness. "A subtile interpretation of the development of his powers to a climax, and of the moral retrogression that dimmed his later achievements."—Life.

WESTMINSTER BIOGRAPHIES

OF EMINENT ENGLISHMEN

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price per volume, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

THIS series of brief memoirs seeks to present the lives of eminent Englishmen whose achievements in various fields of human endeavor are such as to have a wider than national interest, and therefore to appeal to other than British readers. In purpose and scope the series resembles the Beacon Biographies of famous Americans, and the lives are written in the same compact, authentic, and entertaining manner. In format the volumes are similar to the latter, with binding in red cloth instead of blue. With full chronological table and a bibliography giving the student the best references for further research. Descriptions of the individual volumes can be found under the respective titles. The complete list is as follows:

WHEN EVE was not CREATED

AND OTHER STORIES

By HERVEY WHITE

Size, 4¾ x 7½ inches; pages, 220; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

THIS is a remarkable story of a type and style of subjective symbolism altogether new to American literature. In the title story Svend, as a type expressive of the suppression of the artistic sense in love, where, the eye being satisfied with the object, the heart, the soul, the mind of the man yet goes hungry and unsatisfied, will fix himself in the reader's mind as one of the strongest characters of fiction. The other stories are scarcely less noteworthy, and the book as a whole will add greatly to the author's already high reputation as a writer.

WHERE COPPER WAS KING

By JAMES NORTH WRIGHT

Size, 5¼ x 7½ inches; pages, 352; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

THIS "Tale of the Early Mining Days on Lake Superior" is a novel of remarkable interest, full of adventurous incident and with a delicate vein of romance. It possesses the special merit of recording vividly a phase of Western life which is fast disappearing. With the immense growth of the mining industries on Lake Superior much of the picturesqueness of the early methods and characters has gone forever, and the Cornish miner, like the cowboy of the plains, has passed away. It will add to the interest of the story to know that Captain Wright was formerly the Superintendent of the famous Calumet & Hecla mine (of which company he is now a director), and that he describes herein life which he has actually seen and of which he himself has been a part.

WALT WHITMAN

By ISAAC HULL PLATT

(See Beacon Biographies)

Size, 3¾ x 5¾ inches; pages, xxii, 147; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, flexible cloth; price, 75 cents net; by mail, 80 cents.

IT is peculiarly fitting that the first attempt to produce a real life of Whitman should be made in the Beacon Biographies, which aim to produce competent brief sketches of the lives of the most eminent Americans written by sympathetic but unprejudiced chroniclers from the viewpoint of the present generation. The author is in thorough sympathy with his subject, and he has a reputation for calm, dispassionate writing which will go far toward making the present volume acceptable both to Whitman students and to those who desire to learn of the real significance of the poet's life and work without assenting to all the claims of the hero-worshippers.

JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER

By RICHARD BURTON

WIT AND HUMOR OF WELL-KNOWN QUOTATIONS

Edited by MARSHALL BROWN

Size, 5¼ x 7¾ inches; pages, xxii, 354; binding, cloth (uniform with Humor of Bulls and Blunders); price, $1.20 net; by mail, $1.33.

A UNIQUE collection of familiar quotations, about each of which are grouped many of the wise and witty comments or versified versions which have grown out of the original maxim or serve to illustrate its significance. These variations on the text are collected from all sources, from the humble anonymous newspaper paragraph to the pages of the most profound philosophers. Beyond its interest to the general reader it should have an especial value to after-dinner speakers, furnishing a wealth of bright gems of wit, many of them little known, and all arranged under familiar maxims, which furnish a ready topical reference.

WITH WALT WHITMAN IN CAMDEN

A DIARY RECORD OF CONVERSATIONS KEPT BY HORACE TRAUBEL

Size, 5¾ x 9 inches; pages, xiv, 473; illustrations, twenty-five full-page half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $3.00 net; by mail, $3.20.

THE publication of the initial volume of Mr. Traubel's diary of Walt Whitman's conversations is one of the most important events in the literary history of America. For nineteen years Mr. Traubel was most intimately associated with Whitman in Camden. During the greater part of this period he saw the poet daily, often several times a day. In 1888 he began to record, consecutively and faithfully, the conversations and events of each meeting, whatever the subject-matter, whether important or seemingly trivial; and this diary record was continued until the poet's death in 1892. In preparing the diary for publication, Mr. Traubel has made no attempt to dress up Whitman or in any way to obtrude the personality of the chronicler. Everything is informally presented just as it occurred, and the result is a picture of the daily life and thought of Whitman during his last years, when his judgments and his personality were finally matured,—a picture such as we have of no other great author, with the possible exception of Dr. Johnson. Moreover, the work contains a wealth of letters and bits of manuscript and other documents both by Whitman himself and from many of the greatest of his contemporaries. The conversations give his estimates and opinions of almost all contemporary men and events. "An extraordinary book, . . . a revelation," exclaims the New York Sun. "One of the most remarkable volumes that has appeared in the last hundred years," asserts the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "A permanent acquisition," adds the St. Louis Globe Democrat, "to the literature of biography and character study, . . . an absorbingly interesting work."

A WOMAN'S PARIS

Size, 4¼ x 7 inches; pages, xvi, 219; illustrations, 41 half-tones; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

OF this "Handbook of Everyday Living in the French Capital" the Living Age remarks that in it "any woman about to visit Paris for the first time, and every woman who has aspirations in that direction, will take delight as well as satisfaction. It tells exactly such things as an old resident, not forgetful of American customs and American principles, would impart to one ignorant of Paris and apt to make mistakes, not only as to hotels, shops, and art galleries, but in connection with theatres, restaurants, and social customs. It will prove a useful friend to a multitude of travellers."

WOMEN AND ECONOMICS

By CHARLOTTE PERKINS GILMAN

Size, 5 x 7¼ inches; pages, vii, 340; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

THIS "Study of the Economic Relation between Men and Women as a Factor in Social Evolution" has gone through several editions, and is one of the most remarkable contributions which has been made by a woman to economic literature. It expresses, in a striking and challenging way, an analysis and explanation of woman's position in modern society, and remedial plans for the future in regard to her economic environment. The dependence of woman upon man is due to the economic history of the race, but the way to correct this condition of affairs, whereby she is to be emancipated and move in her own independent sphere, is cogently outlined. The argument is developed with great literary skill and resource, and, whether one agrees with the writer or not, such a book is sure to be provocative of clearer and fresher thought upon this difficult subject.

WORDS OF THE WOODS

By RALCY HUSTED BELL

Size, 5¼ x 8 inches; pages, xi, 87; binding, paper boards; price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.07.

THE WOUND DRESSER

Edited by RICHARD MAURICE BUCKE

Size, 5¼ x 7½ inches; pages, viii, 201; illustrations, photogravure frontispiece; binding, cloth; price, $1.50.

THIS series of letters, edited by one of Whitman's literary executors, was written by Walt Whitman to his Mother from the hospitals in Washington during the War of the Rebellion. The Boston Journal says that "surely no more vivid picture has ever been painted of the army hospital than we see in these letters. If you know a man who says that war is ever to be welcomed, ask him to read this book. War is hell, and here are the proofs." Introduced by three letters on the Hospital Service contributed by Whitman to the press.

YELLOW PINE BASIN

THE STORY OF A PROSPECTOR

By HENRY G. CATLIN

Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, 214; binding, cloth; price, $1.25.

THE YELLOW WALL PAPER

By CHARLOTTE PERKINS GILMAN

Size, 4¾ x 6¼ inches; pages, 55; binding, paper boards; price, 50 cents.

OF this little volume the Christian Register says that it is "a conceit fantastical and gruesome enough to have emanated from the brain of Edgar Poe. It is written with remarkable vividness, as if the writer had experienced something very like the misery which she describes. There is nothing extravagant or unreal in the narration. Wall papers, yellow and other colored, have had often a pernicious influence on people of defective nervous poise, and quite unbalanced them. Mrs. Gilman's story has a purely literary justification, but is none the worse for teaching a lesson which some loving husbands and parents would do well to heed."

Index of the Subjects represented in E. Steiger & Co.'s Catalogues and Lists of German and other Publications, which are usually kept on hand and for sale.

Reference to many minor specialities that are represented on E. Steiger & Co.'s shelves, has been omitted in this Index; it mentions expressly only the more important subjects (in which those minor specialities are, of course, embraced).

Moreover, it should be understood that important new publications are, as soon as issued, added to the stock of E. Steiger & Co., from whom they may, therefore, be ordered, although not advertised by them.

Of many German Periodicals stock is kept on hand; all others, in whatever country published, are imported to order, by various conveyances — at correspondingly different prices, which will be quoted upon inquiry.

Note. Steiger's Catalogues and Lists have, primarily for the purpose of being distributed singly, been issued—not in regular order—in the course of several years; for various reasons they have not been edited in uniform style, nor have all been numbered and paged. They can be had done up in a complete collection of about 500 pp. (price $0.25), and also, to answer the needs of other bookbuyers, in various small combinations. These Catalogues and Lists will be supplemented from time to time, or re-edited to correspond with the additions to, and changes in, the stock of E. Steiger & Co.

Abbreviations. L. = Language — M. = Manufacture of. The * in place of a number indicates that the publications on that subject are mentioned on a separate leaf.

This Index shows that our stock comprises nearly all departments of German literature. There are only a few classes of publications of which we do not keep stock on our shelves, because our showroom is limited, and also because we can procure those publications elsewhere in this city immediately upon receipt of an order. — Anything not to be had in New York will be imported by us within the shortest possible time.

We invite particular attention to our unequalled stock of

Standard German Books,

Choice and Superior Editions, in Extra Binding,

which are especially suitable for Public and Private Libraries.

For smaller and Circulating Libraries, for use in classes of Colleges, and for Bookbuyers generally we recommend the

Cheapest Editions of

Standard German Books

@ 5 cts., 10 cts., 15 cts., etc. — in paper,
and @ 15 cts., 20 cts., 25 cts., etc. — in cloth.

These are:

Meyer's Volksbücher (about 1500 numbers, 24mo, in paper)—Reclam's Universal-Bibliothek (about 4800 no's, 24mo, in paper, and many also in cloth)—Hendel's Bibliothek der Gesamtlitteratur (about 2000 no's, 16mo, in paper, and all also in cloth) — Cotta'sche Volksbibliothek (110 vols. in 18mo, in cloth) — Cotta'sche Bibliothek der Weltlitteratur (320 vols. in 16mo, in cloth) — Engelhorn's Roman-Bibliothek (570 vols. in 16mo, in cloth) — Universal-Bibliothek für die Jugend (135 vols. in 16mo, in cloth) — Weber's Illustrirte Katechismen (250 vols. in 16mo, in cloth) — Sammlung Goeschen (300 vols. in 16mo, in cloth) — Steiger's Jugend-Bibliothek (34 vols. in 24mo, in boards).

The bound volumes of the above are especially suitable for small Collections, for Circulating, School and Family Libraries. A small beginning may be made with a number of such volumes, to which others, in uniform binding, can be added as circumstances permit.

☞ Any order for German and other Foreign, or for American Books and Periodicals may be directed to us with the expectation that we shall either fill the same at once, or else forward it to another house which is probably able to supply what is wanted. If, however, parties who address orders to us desire that we fill the same, although we may not have on hand what is ordered, they should state expressly: "Procure, if not on hand," in which case we shall do so, as promptly as possible.

☞ Of German Books in all departments,
of Books for the study of Foreign Languages,
of Kindergarten Material and of many other specialties
we keep the largest stock in America; we try to procure in this city what we may not have on our shelves, and import any publications from all countries within the shortest possible time.

In view of the fact that for the study of many languages Dictionaries, Grammars, Phrasebooks, etc. are not in existence, the next best means of acquiring a certain knowledge of such foreign languages is afforded by the Scriptures translated by Missionaries. In this Catalogue, therefore, we quote the New Testament or parts thereof in about 200 languages.

These Books are kept on hand and for sale by E. Steiger & Co. at the annexed prices, which are, however, subject to correction and to changes.—Special Terms for Schools, when quantities of any one book are ordered.

☞ For English, German and other Teutonic Languages see Steiger's Catalogue No. 16, for Greek and Latin, and Oriental Languages, Steiger's Catalogue No. 15.

Newly edited

Ninth Edition

Newly engraved

of

Stieler's Hand-Atlas

— the leading German Atlas of the World —

containing 100 sheets (16×19″) with 100 maps and 162 inset maps, plans, etc.— all engraved on copper and printed in colors.

With an Alphabetical Index of all Names (upwards of 200,000) occurring in the Hand-Atlas.

Edited by

Justus Perthes' Geographical Institute, Gotha.

Plain Binding,
narrow leather back,
cloth sides, gilt title, $12.65

Extra Binding,
wide leather back and leather corners,
rich gilding, copper plaquette, $14.00

More than 10 years ago the last (8th) edition of Stieler's Hand-Atlas was completed. How much has changed since then! This newly engraved edition records the innumerable instances of progress and changes in the well-known countries; it shows also the countless results of explorations and discoveries in territories that were formerly unknown.

All the maps in this new "Large Stieler" are engraved on copper, as has been the case in all former editions; but—and this is the salient point—the printing has been done on the cylinder press. This innovation has made a moderate price possible which permits the sale of the Hand-Atlas in a widely extended field; it has now been brought within reach of persons of moderate means.

The great difference between the former and the present editions is apparent on comparing the printing and coloring of an old map with the soft tints of the new Stieler. In short: distinctness has been doubled, reliability preserved, whilst the price has been greatly reduced.

STOKES' ENCYCLOPEDIA OF FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS. Since the last appearance of a reliable encyclopedia of familiar quotations many authors then unknown have come to be widely quoted, while many quotations then familiar are now known only to the erudite browser in musty tomes. The clearing out of this dead wood and substituting for it the actually familiar quotations of more recent writers was then one of the main ideas in the compilation of this new encyclopedia; but on the other hand, the immortal quotations, perennially fresh, are here given more fully than ever before. The index of this new encyclopedia gives practically all the important words of a quotation instead of the first only. BOOKS

The New Era in the Philippines. By Rev. A. J. Brown, D. D. Index and Map. 12mo, 314 pages; paper, 35 cents.

This book is the product, not so much of the study of volumes which others have written, as of first-hand observation on the field, made possibly by an extended tour of the islands in 1901. No more timely, comprehensive, and satisfactory book has appeared on this recently opened field for Protestant missions. It is full of such information about the Philippines as the well-informed person most wants.

A Hand-Book of Comparative Religion. By S. H. Kellogg, D. D., LL. D., Missionary to India, and author of "The Light of Asia and the Light of the World." Analytical index; 12mo, 184 pages; paper, 30 cents; cloth 75 cents.

This book shows comparatively and in an exceedingly clear way, just what each of the great faiths teaches on the important religious questions of the ages.

Protestant Missions: Their Rise and Early Progress. By Augustus C. Thompson, D. D. Appendix, index. 12mo, 314 pages; paper, 35 cents; cloth 50 cents.

An excellent summary of early Protestant missions; mainly biographical and describing fully a few great missionaries rather than referring to many of comparatively little importance. The author sketches the history from the Reformation to a little more than a century ago; grouping his facts largely around leading missionaries, so that the charm of biography is added to that of little known history. Much of the volume has to do with early missions in the two Americas.

Heroes of the Mission Field. By W. P. Walsh, D. D. 12mo, 249 pages; paper, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Bishop Walsh puts into twelve chapters graphic sketches of great missionaries of the Church from the Early Church down to Schwartz, who died in 1798, It is finely written and is especially recommended for reading circles.

BOOKS

Africa Waiting: or the Problem of Africa's Evangelization. By Douglas M. Thornton. Bibliography, missionary statistics and map. 12mo, 148 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

A comprehensive book of small compass concerning the people and missions of Africa.

It takes a wide range—geography, languages and races; the special problems of each of the four great sections of the Dark Continent; the slave trade and the drink traffic.—The Sunday School Times.

Call, Qualifications, and Preparation of Candidates for Missionary Service. Papers by missionaries and other authorities. Of special value to missionary candidates. 12mo, revised and enlarged, 248 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

This is not a systematic treatise on the call, qualifications, and preparation of candidates for foreign missionary service. It is simply a collection of papers prepared for periodicals and magazines, and for the conventions of the Student Volunteer Movement by different writers, each one of whom is fitted to give helpful advice to those preparing for the foreign mission field. These articles will be of value to students who are endeavoring to decide what their life work shall be. The various phases of missionary work and the qualifications necessary for successful missionary service are clearly presented.

This book is one of the most valuable and helpful of the kind that we have ever read. No candidate should fail to read and reread it. It is a compilation of papers by such authors as Mr. Robert E. Speer, Dr Jacob Chamberlain, Dr. Henry Jessup, Mr. Egene Stock, Bishop Thoburn, Mr. Harlan P. Beach, Dr. Gulick, Archdeacon Moule and others.—The Missionary Review.

Candidates in Waiting: a manual of Home Preparation for Foreign Missionary Work. By Georgiana A. Gollock. Cloth, square 16mo, 128 pp.; 50 cents postpaid.

This is elementary in character and especially good for those who are not college graduates.

Comparative Studies in Missionary Biography: A scheme for the study of missionary biography, which has been used with great success in the universities of Great Britain. This pamphlet has been prepared to meet the needs of the students of the United States and Canada. Price, 5 cents per copy.

Counsel to New Missionaries. From older missionaries. Board covers, 12mo, 145 pp.; 20 cents.

"This is a book of personal counsel; all of its chapters were written by experienced missionaries, who place at the disposal of new missionaries some of their invaluable experience. This little volume was published with the hope and prayer that young men and women going out to the field may be helped by reading it to be better, happier, and more fruitful servants of Jesus Christ our Lord."

Dawn on the Hills of T'ang: or Missions in China. By Harlan P. Beach, M.A., F.R.G.S. (New and enlarged edition of 1905.) Bibliography, analytical index, missionary map, statistics, illustrations. 12mo, 227 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

In this volume the main points are given in as brief form as possible. In the eight chapters the most important factors relating to the Empire are discussed from the missionary standpoint. The author vividly describes the land, people and religions of China and gives an interesting account of missionary operations in this Empire, with special references to changes following the Boxer uprising of 1900.

It is a terse, compact and serviceable manual about missions in China.—The Congregationalist.

It is a valuable treasury of information in itself, and, if desired, can be made the basis of minute and extended study.—The Christian Advocate.

Effective Workers in Needy Fields. By W. F. McDowell, D.D., R. P. McKay, D.D., W. F. Oldman, D.D., C. C. Creegan, D.D.., and J. D. Davis, D.D. Bibliography, analytical index, illustrations. 12mo, 195 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

This book contains the record of five remarkable lives, all of them, with the exception of the first, written by persons who were intimately acquainted with the life which they so admirably portray. The reader is brought into a sympathetic knowledge of the lives and works of these modern missionaries: David Livingstone, Africa; George Leslie Mackay, Formosa; Isabella Thoburn, India; Cyrus Hamlin, Turkey, and Joseph Hardy Neesima, Japan.

Evangelization of the World in This Generation. By John R. Mott, M.A., F.R.G.S. Bibliography, analytical index. 12mo, 245 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth, decorated, gilt top, $1.00.

Few books on missions have had so wide a sale as this. In the United States and Canada the work has reached its thirty-sixth thousand. It has been reprinted in England and in India, and translated into Swedish, Danish, Norwegian, and German. It is doubtful whether any missionary volume hitherto published can compare with it in strength of argument and in prophetic vision. It is stimulating, lucid, and convincing, addressing itself not to the emotions, but to the judgment; yet it is so spiritual in tone and purpose that it encourages and inspires the reader. No prospective reader of public sentiment in Church or State can afford to lose this course of study.—The Sunday School Times.

The book is doubly worth the reading, both for its moving appeal to the universal Christian consciousness and for the timely information it gives as to the grand sweep of modern missionary thought and effort, the wide-reaching activities of the present, and the marvelous opportunities of the future.—The Christian Advocate.

Nothing better can be found to give, in brief and compendious review, a summary of the missionary outlook of the church at the present hour.—Rev. James S. Dennis, D.D., in The Churchman.

Geography and Atlas of Protestant Missions. By Harlan P. Beach, M.A., F.R.G.S. Two volumes, cloth bound; net price, postpaid, $4.00 per set. Sold only in sets. Volume I, 571 pages; Volume II, 54 pages, 18 double-page maps.

A distinct mission land is presented in each chapter of Volume I. There is given a vivid picture of its geography and its races, its social and religious condition as unaffected by Christian missions, as well as an account of the Protestant mission work as it is being carried on in the opening years of the twentieth century. It is not a history of Protestant missions, but a clear, sympathetic and interesting portrayal of the outstanding facts.

Volume II contains the latest and most detailed statistics of the missionary societies of Canada, the United States, Great Britain and the Continent. The Station Index shows the missionary force and work in more than four thousand stations. The maps, on which are marked the stations of practically all independent societies, are artistic and geographically correct, having been prepared for the work by well-known British cartographers.

Healing of the Nations: a treatise on Medical Missions, Statement and Appeal. By J. Rutter Williamson, M. B., Edinburgh University. Member of the British Medical Association. Bibliography. 12mo, 95 pp.; paper, 25 cents; cloth, 40 cents.

No single agency is so successful in removing prejudice in many fields as the work of medical missions. The facts brought out in the text-book are novel and interesting, not only to earnest friends of missions, but to others who may be influenced by the philanthropic aspect of the work. The aim of the text-book is to present facts that ought to be pondered in the hearts of Christian men and women.

The appeal made by the awful sufferings endured in the absence of medical relief is made intense by the facts here put before us, and the success of the medical missionary as a pathbreaker for Christ through the jungles of superstition and prejudice is put beyond a doubt.—The Outlook.

India and Christian Opportunity. By Harlan P. Beach, M.A., F.R.G.S.. Missionary statistics, index, annotated bibliography, and illustrations. 12mo, 308 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

This is the latest and best text-book prepared by Mr. Beach, whose books are so well known to all students of missions. Correspondence during the past eight years with leaders of classes has determined the selection of a larger portion of general information relating to the geography, ethnography, and religions of India than appears in the ordinary volume on that country.

This book is a miniature encyclopedia. It was written as a text-book for college, university and seminary students. These will find it just what they need. Its topics have a most comprehensive scope and pointed treatment, and further investigation is stimulated by numerous references and a pertinent bibliography. As a book of reference it is most valuable, and the very complete index makes the material easily available. The student—not necessarily in college—who desires to know India can find no better basis for research, however extensive.—Rev. John W. Conklin.

Introduction to the Study of Foreign Missions. By Edward A. Lawrence, D D. Being Chapters A, II, VII, VIII, IX of "Modern Missions in the East." 12mo, 143 pp.; paper, 25 cents; cloth, 40 cents.

It contains a striking historical survey which is followed by an exceedingly valuable discussion of the aim, scope, motives, etc., underlying the missionary enterprise. Then come chapters on the various forms of missionary effort, the missionary on the field in his various relations, and the problems which confront him.

Japan and Its Regeneration. By Rev. Otis Cary, D.D. Bibliography, illustrations, statistics, index, and missionary map. 12mo, 137 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents. Revised edition.

The aim of the volume is to exhibit the inter-working of the many agencies in this Oriental rennaissance, and their true relation one to another, as well as to clearly depict the material, social, and religious environment of the Japanese missionary. The treatment is broad and catholic, and the attempt has been made to do equal justice to all leading elements that have entered into Japan's recent wonderful progress, including her relations with Russia.

Written by a Japanese missionary of long standing and rare discrimination, it presents in compact form Japan's past and present history, her people and religions, and the work of missions in that Empire. It is lucid, trustworthy, and certain to interest every friend of missions and all students or contemporary history.—Japan Evangelist.

A better manual upon the Japanese Empire and its evangelization could scarcely be produced.—Church Missionary Intelligencer.

Knights of the Labarum: a Study in the Lives of Judson—Burma, Duff—India, Mackenzie—China, and Mackay—Africa. By Harlan P. Beach. 12mo, 111 pp.; paper, 25 cents postpaid.

No better book for classes just beginning the study of missions.

Missionaries at Work. By Georgiana A. Gollock. Crown 8vo, 182 pp.; cloth; 75 cents postpaid.

The aim of this book is to set before missionary candidates some practical suggestions and some fundamental principles that may be helpful in their work. It is written by a secretary of the largest Protestant missionary society of the world and is enriched by her observations of missionaries at work in various parts of the world.

Missions and Apostles of Mediæval Europe. By Rev. G. F. Maclear, D.D., Warden of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury. 16mo, 149 pp.; paper, 25 cents; cloth, 40 cents.

A study of the mission fields of the Middle Ages and of the heroic Apostles who have been the makers of modern Europe. It is interestingly written by the highest British authority on Mediæval Missions.

Modern Apostles in Missionary Byways. By Rev. A. C. Thompson, D.D., Rev. H. P. Beach, Miss Abbie B. Child, Bishop Walsh, Rev. S. J. Humphrey, and Dr. A. T. Pierson. Bibliography, analytical index, portraits. 12mo, 108 pp.; paper 25 cents; cloth, 40 cents.
